

2.04 Thermal Energy and Chemical Change Lab Report

Instructions: In this engineering lab, you will build trains to reach the finish line without crashing. You will need to repeat tests of your device to make sure it does not need to be redesigned or improved. Complete all the areas shaded in purple.

Note: If you cannot complete this lab as directed, please contact your instructor for assistance.

Student Name	Yaakov
Instructor	Ms. Gomez
Date	09/28/23

Part 1: Thermal Energy

Lab Objective:

The goal of the lab is to build steam engine trains that can carry cargo to the end of three different tracks.

Part 2: Energy Engineers

To create working trains, you will need to learn about the different parts that power the train. Take notes on each part.

	Is this an endothermic or exothermic process?
Evaporative cooler	This device cools the air through the evaporation of water. Evaporation is a phase change from water to water vapor. It is an endothermic process because it absorbs heat from the outside air. Usually, an electric source runs the fan, brings in the hot air, and blows the cool water vapor out.
Woodburning heater	A wood-burning heater burns wood for fuel in order to heat the air around it. Wood burning is an exothermic chemical reaction because it releases heat and changes the wood to a new substance.
Steam engine	Inside a steam engine, a fire ignites coal, which heats a boiler full of water above it. The heated water turns into steam that is pushed into a cylinder. This causes the piston inside the cylinder to move, which spins the wheels of the engine. Heat is released during the chemical reaction of burning coal, so this is an exothermic reaction. The physical conversion of water to steam due to the absorption of heat is an endothermic process.

Laboratory Methods in Dynamic Electroanalysis M. Teresa Fernández Abedul, 2019-10-13 Laboratory Methods in Dynamic Electroanalysis is a useful guide to introduce analytical chemists and scientists of related disciplines to the world of dynamic electroanalysis using simple and low cost methods The trend toward decentralization of analysis has made this fascinating field one of the fastest growing branches of analytical chemistry As electroanalytical devices have moved from conventional electrochemical cells 10 20 mL to current cells e g 5 50 mL based on different materials such as paper or polymers that integrate thick or thin film electrodes interesting strategies have emerged such as the combination of microfluidic cells and biosensing or nanostructuration of electrodes This book provides detailed easy procedures for dynamic electroanalysis and covers the main trends in electrochemical cells and electrodes including microfluidic electrodes electrochemical detection in microchip electrophoresis nanostructuration of electrodes development of bio enzymatic immuno and DNA assays paper based electrodes interdigitated array electrodes multiplexed analysis and combination with optics Different strategies and techniques amperometric voltammetric and impedimetric are presented in a didactic practice based way and a bibliography provides readers with additional sources of information Provides easy to implement experiments using low cost simple equipment Includes laboratory methodologies that utilize both conventional designs and the latest trends in dynamic electroanalysis Goes beyond the fundamentals covered in other books focusing instead on practical applications of electroanalysis Experiment Station Record United States.
