

Experiment 1: Venturi Flow

The Venturi tube is a device used to measure the flow rate of a fluid in a pipe. It consists of a pipe with a constriction in the middle. The fluid flows from left to right, and the pressure is measured at three points: the inlet, the constriction, and the outlet.

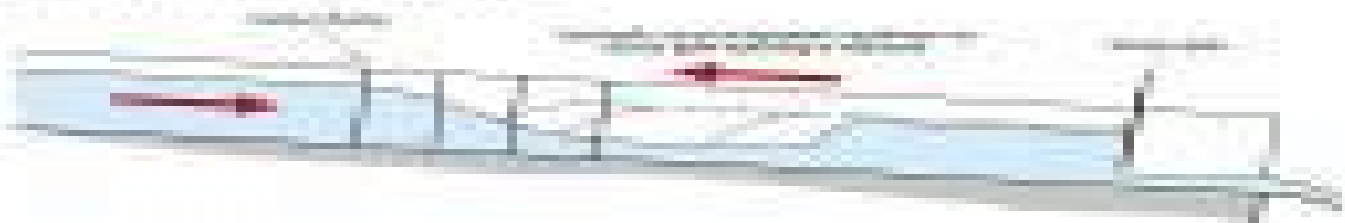

In the experiment, water is used as the fluid. The water is pumped from a reservoir into the Venturi tube. The pressure is measured at the inlet, the constriction, and the outlet. The flow rate is calculated using the pressure measurements.

It is important to note that the Venturi tube is only used for measuring the flow rate of a fluid in a pipe. It is not used for measuring the flow rate of a gas or a liquid in a pipe.

The Venturi tube is a simple and effective device for measuring the flow rate of a fluid in a pipe. It is widely used in many applications, including in the design of aircraft engines and in the measurement of the flow rate of water in a river.
