AirLandBattle21 Ellwood P. Hinman IV,Thomas E. Jahn,James G. Jinnette,2016-12-05 The changed strategic landscape of the 21st century has driven a shift to more flexible adaptable capabilities across the spectrum of conflict Operations in Iraq and Afghanistan have demonstrated the validity of team warfare between air and land forces during open hostilities with an enemy The time has come for innovative counter air and counter land concepts focused on medium to large scale conventional combat operations that will merge air and ground forces even more effectively into a single potent fighting force Such is the focus of AirLandBattle21 A basic assumption in this study is that during major combat operations a relevant number of Brigade Combat Teams BCTs will conduct distributed operations in a non linear non contiguous and geographically separated fashion The study introduces a flexible counter air framework that allows for the most efficient use of limited air assets and advocates only the necessary levels of air control in different areas across the theatre The study also offers alternative views of strategic attack and explores the critical role tactical airlift will play in employing and sustaining the brigade combat team International Military Digest Cornélis De Witt Willcox,Edwin Roy Stuart,1917 The International Military Digest Annual Edwin Roy Stuart,1917 Armed Conflict, Women and Climate Change Jody M. Prescott,2018-11-21 The gender differentiated and more severe impacts of armed conflict upon women and girls are well recognised by the international community as demonstrated by UN Security Council Resolution UNSCR 1325 on Women

Peace and Security and subsequent resolutions Similarly the development community has identified gender differentiated impacts upon women and girls as a result of the effects of climate change Current research and analysis has reached no consensus as to any causal relationship between climate change and armed conflict but certain studies suggest an indirect linkage between climate change effects such as food insecurity and armed conflict Little research has been conducted on the possible compounding effects that armed conflict and climate change might have on at risk population groups such as women and girls Armed Conflict Women and Climate Change explores the intersection of these three areas and allows the reader to better understand how military organisations across the world need to be sensitive to these relationships to be most effective in civilian centric operations in situations of humanitarian relief peacekeeping and even armed conflict This book examines strategy and military doctrine from NATO the UK US and Australia and explores key issues such as displacement food and energy insecurity and male out migration as well as current efforts to incorporate gender considerations in military activities and operations This innovative book will be of great interest to students and scholars of international relations international development international security sustainability gender studies and law
