Civil-military cooperation as a vital part in the stabilization-process in Afghanistan Michael A. Braun, 2008-10-16 Seminar paper from the year 2005 in the subject Politics Topic Peace and Conflict Security grade 2 1 University of Potsdam Lehrstuhl für internationale Politik course State Failure Crisis and Conflict Management language English abstract When policy makers from developed countries gather to form the world for a long time military forces were seen as the only ones of impact in areas of war and crisis They were massively funded and specifically equipped to fulfill their tasks for the best possible outcome But over the last decades civilian mostly non governmental actors did show up for nation building as well These organizations eventually demanded the right to participate and then had to deal with urgent reconstruction issues as well For this the question is how these civilians and military personnel work and win wars together when they have to Based on Afghanistan the paper points on the ever more used concept of civil military cooperation from the perspective of the military To gain insight four different approaches UN NATO US Germany are described and explained The context of the paper is formed by background information on the current missions in Afghanistan Operation Enduring Freedom and International Security Assistance Force And to get an impression of the cooperation the paper overlooks the successful Provincial Reconstruction Teams The hypothesis of the paper is that successful civil military cooperation is assumed to be a vital part in the stabilization process in Afghanistan This is due to the broad meaning that the different deployed actors put onto it And especially the featured military forces bodies have changed within the last decade
