The Orient of Style Beryl Schlossman, 1991 In this study of modernist aesthetics Beryl Schlossman reveals how for such writers as Marcel Proust Gustave Flaubert and Charles Baudelaire the Orient came to symbolize the highest aspirations of literary representation She demonstrates that through allegory modernism became a style itself a style that married the ancient and the modern and that emerged as both a cause and an effect both an ideal construct and an textual materiality all symbolized by the Orient land of style place of plurality and site of the coexistence of holy lands Toward the end of Remembrance of Things Past the narrator describes the act of creating a work of art as a conversion of sensation into a spiritual equivalent By means of such allegories of conversion Schlossman shows the modernist artist disappeared within the work of art and left behind the trace of his sublime vocation a vocation in which he was transformed in Schlossman s words into a kind of priest kneeling at the altar of beauty before the masked divinity of representation The author shows how allegory the representation of the symbolic as something real was adapted by modernist writers to reflect subjectivity while masking an authorial origin She reveals how modernist allegory arose as Walter Benjamin suggests at the crossroads of history sociology economics urban architecture and art providing a kind of map of capitalism and was produced through the eyes of a melancholic gazing at a monument of absence

Madeleine Proust Jacques Bal, 2008 Baking Dorie Greenspan, 2006 Offers more than three hundred of the author s favorite recipes including split level pudding gingered carrot cookies and fold over pear torte and provides baking tips and a glossary Temps Sensible Julia Kristeva, 1996 Not only a meditation on Proust this is a commentary on how the experience of literature is manifested in time and sensation Kristeva uses Proust as a starting point to reflect upon broader notions of character time sensation metaphor and history Badiou and Deleuze Read Literature Jean-Jacques Lecercle, 2010-06-26 Considers the strong readings that Alain Badiou and Gilles Deleuze imposed on the texts they read Why do philosophers read literature How do they read it Does their philosophy derive from their reading of literature If so to what extent Anyone who reads contemporary European philosophers has to ask such questions Lecercle demonstrates that philosophers need literature as much as literary critics need philosophy it is an exercise not in the philosophy of literature where literature is a mere object of analysis but in philosophy and literature a heady and unusual mix The Price of Literature Patrick M. Bray, 2019-03-15 The Price of Literature examines the presence of theory in the nineteenth century French novel something Proust likened to leaving a price tag on a gift Emerging after the French Revolution what we now call literature was conceived as an art liberated from representational constraints Patrick M Bray shows how literature's freedom to represent anything at all has meant paradoxically that it cannot articulate a coherent theory of itself unless this theory is a necessarily subversive literary representation or the novel's theoretical turn Literary thought or the theory produced by the text can only function by exploring what escapes dominant representations The Price of Literature analyzes how certain iconic texts from the nineteenth century by Mme de Staël Hugo Balzac Flaubert and Proust perform a theoretical turn to claim the freedom to represent anything in the world but also literature's ability to transform the world it represents The conclusion advances a new way of thinking about literary scholarship one based on how literature redistributes ways of writing by lending form to thought Memory Work Miguel de Baca, 2015-12-08 Memory Work demonstrates the evolution of the pioneering minimalist sculptor Anne Truitt An artist determined to make her way through a new aesthetic in the 1960s Truitt was tireless in her pursuit of a strong cultural voice At the heart of her practice was the key theme of memory which enabled her not only to express personal experience but also to address how perception was changing for a contemporary viewership She gravitated toward the idea that an object in one's focus could unleash a powerful return to the past through memory which in turn brings a fresh even critical attention to the present moment In addition to the artist's own popular published writings which detail the unique challenges facing female artists Memory Work draws on unpublished manuscripts private recordings and never before seen working drawings to validate Truitt's original ideas about the link between perception and mnemonic reference in contemporary art De Baca offers an insider's view of the artist's unstinting efforts to realize her artistic vision as well as the cultural political and historical resonances her oeuvre has for us today Columbia
