Italy the Magic Land by Lilian Whiting THE PERIOD OF MODERN ART IN ROME But ah that spring should vanish with the Rose That youth's sweet scented manuscript should close The nightingale that in the branches sang Oh where and whither flown again who knows Omar Khayyam Rome as the picturesque city of the Popes in the middle years of the nineteenth century was resplendent in local color It was the Rome of sunny winters the Rome of gay excursions over that haunted sea of the Campagna to pictorial points in the Alban and Sabine hills the Rome of young artist life which organized impromptu festas with Arcadian freedom and utilized the shadow or the shelter of ruined temples or tombs in which to spread its picnic lunches and bring the glow of simple friendly intercourse into the romantic lights of the poetic historic or tragic past There were splendid Catholic processions and ceremonials that seemed organized as a part of the stage scenery that ensconced itself also with the nonchalance of easy possession in the vast salons of historic palaces where tapestried walls and richly painted ceilings arched high overhead with statues dimly seen in niches here and there and the bust of some crowned Antoninus or radiant Juno gleaming from a shadowy corner all made up the mise en scene of familiar evenings There were lingering hours in the gardens of the Villa Medici into whose shades one strolled by that beguiling path along the parapet on Monte Pincio through the beautiful grove with its walks and fountains The old ilex bosquet with its tangled growth and air of complete seclusion had its spell of fascination Then as now the elevated temple at the end of the main path seemed the haunt of gods and muses In all the incidental as well as the ceremonial social meeting and mingling art and religion were the general themes of discussion This idyllic life We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience Italy Lilian Whiting, 2015-09-19 This work has been selected by
