Making Good Trevor Hart, 2023-05 God spoke and all that is and all that ever will be came into existence God alone can be called uncreated and Creator and creation can only accomplish that which already exists within God's imagination In Making Good Trevor Hart argues that human creativity is always a matter of unfolding the possibilities already latent within the original creative event Making Good contends that while humans must acknowledge the unique and incomparable dimensions of God's creative activity the biblical theology of creation encourages rather than prohibits human creativity within a language of creation Hart's basic contention is that the God known as the Father of Jesus Christ is no domineering deity who jealously seeks to protect his creative prerogatives but one whose own creativity calls forth inspires and enables creative responses on the part of his human creatures Making Good blends biblical historical and systematic theology into conversation with philosophy aesthetics and developments in creative theory among the social sciences Hart renders a theological account of human artistry and the wider human activities of making good

Making Good Helen Oppenheimer, 2001 In this text the author discusses questions and issues relating to what we can mean by calling any creation good human or divine Her starting point is that creation divine or human involves ethical responsibility The questions raised lead straight to an examination of the problem of evil

Divine Christology in the Epistle to the Hebrews Nick Brennan, 2021-09-23 Nick Brennan investigates the depiction of the Son's divine nature in the Epistle to the Hebrews despite little attention being directly given to the Son's divinity in recent study of Hebrews Brennan argues that not only is the Son depicted as divine in the Epistle but that this depiction ranges outside the early chapters in which it is most often noted and is theologically relevant to the pattern of the Author's argument Beginning with a survey of the state of contemporary scholarship on the Son's divinity in Hebrews and a discussion of the issues connected to predicating divinity of the Son in the Epistle Brennan analyses the application of Old Testament texts to the Son which in their original context refer to God 1 6 10 12 and demonstrates how the Pastor not only affirms the Son's divinity but also the significance of his exaltation as God He then discusses how Heb 3 3 4 witnesses to the divinity of the Son in Hebrews explores debates on the relation of the Son's indestructible life Heb 7 16 to his divinity and demonstrates how two key concepts in Hebrews covenant and sonship reinforce the Son's divinity Brennan thus concludes that the Epistle not only portrays the Son as God but does so in a manner which is a pervasive aspect of its thought and is theologically salient to many features of the Epistle's argument

The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2003 Art Matters Bernard Koenig, 2009 This is an overview of art criticism as it relates to both the value of art and the aesthetics of art The author offers a new perspective on how science philosophy and art overlap each other showing that art can give us knowledge of our world and our place in it the same way that science or philosophy can Instead of exploring the emotive understanding of the experience of art that such experiences release certain uniquely satisfying feelings within us he argues that art is a deeply significant way of knowing the natural and the human world His discussion incorporates both fiction and music into the notional forms of classical visual art Books & Culture, 1999 The Journal of Educational Thought, 1986 The Story Biz Handbook
