D. Crawshaw, 2015-06-26 Excerpt from Manual Arts Public School Manual Arts an Agency for Vocational Education Some experiments which have been made in recent years to provide for better equipped industrial workers have seemed to indicate that little account has been taken of manual training in the public schools this training to be so organized as to accomplish in part at least the desired results Unquestionably the trade school the special industrial school and the continuation school are each and all a means to the desired end It is a question however whether our present public school organization may not do much that it is not now doing to aid in the industrial education movement Admitting if we can that the schools are not fulfilling their obligation to society in this respect and that manual training teachers are shareholders with their brother teachers concerned in more purely academic subjects in helping to solve the problem of industrial education what can they do to change their methods The Present Facilities Already we have in public school manual arts departments from four to eight shops equipped for wood and metal work We have drawing rooms to provide for three kinds of mechanical drawing and as many kinds of freehand drawing We have science laboratories for practically all the sciences that are taught About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Manual Arts, Its Teacher and Its Methods Gustaf Larsson,1919 Observation and Practice-teaching in Manual Arts and Trade Training Howard V.
