

Relationships and Biodiversity Lab

Introduction:

In this lab you will perform a number of tests to determine evolutionary relationships between a very important (but endangered) plant species, Betula carnea and three related plant species (A, Y and Z).

Scenario:

Betula carnea is a very valuable plant species because it produces Cureol, a certain type of compound used for treating cancer. Cureol cannot be produced in the laboratory. Betula carnea grows very slowly and is on the endangered species list so it is unable to produce large quantities of Cureol. There are three other plant species (A, Y and Z) related to Betula carnea that are not endangered. The species that is most closely related to Betula carnea is most likely to have as a source for the important compound Cureol and help to cure cancer. Your job is to determine which species is the most closely related to the endangered species Betula carnea and therefore the most likely to be used as a source for the important compound Cureol.

Lab Activity Tests 1-3:

Test 1: Structural Characteristics of Plants

- Compare the structural characteristics of the plant samples. Record your observations in Table 1.

Test 2: Structural Characteristics of Seeds

- Compare the structural characteristics of the seed samples. Record your observations in Table 2.

Test 3: Microscope Internal Structure of Stems

- Compare the internal structure of the stem samples. Determine whether the bundles of conducting tissues are scattered or arranged in a ring.

in Table 3.

Draw an on circular diagram
during your observations.

Hypotheses: Tests 1-3

- a. Based on your data for structural relationships, which species (A, Y or Z) would you hypothesize is most likely to produce the compound Cureol?
- b. Explain how the data you collected supports your hypothesis. You will confirm your hypothesis with further tests.
