Competitiveness Creation and Maintenance in the Postal Services Industry Vaida Pilinkienė, Vilma Deltuvaitė, Asta Daunorienė, Vaidas Gaidelys, 2016-07-01 This book examines the changing business and economic environment for postal services in Lithuania and the upcoming challenges for this industry Postal services continue to play a central part in the development of national economies However the economic and social role of postal services has changed rapidly and fundamentally over the last two decades In most industrialized countries paper based communications are in serious decline while the demand for parcel delivery services is rising steadily with the continuing development of e commerce just in time production techniques and global supply chains For the postal sector as a whole the centre of gravity has shifted dramatically from letters and documents to parcels The authors explain how the organizational paradigm has inexorably shifted from that of a national government owned postal administration providing the basic delivery services required by society to a system of interdependent local and regional undertakings that both compete and cooperate with one another The book argues that there are no indications that the postal sector has stopped changing and that it seems most probable that the European Union's postal sector will look quite different in 2035 than it does today In closing the book explains how the shareholders of postal services companies have recently confirmed that the time has come to rethink the strategy of creating and maintaining competitiveness in the postal services industry

The Protection of Employees during Asset Deals in Japan and Germany Jannis Bantele,2023-02-08 Research Paper postgraduate from the year 2022 in the subject Law Civil Private Industrial Labour Keio University Law School course LL M in Global Legal Practice language English abstract

The employees protection during asset deals shall be explained in detail first from a Japanese and after that from a German legal viewpoint introducing the respective systems of company and labour law and taking into account the historical as well as the social context of both countries. Afterwards these two systems shall be directly compared to determine whether there are lessons to be learned from the other regulatory way. By these means the questions shall be answered how much protection during asset deals for employees is necessary and adequate as well as whether an optimal regulation of this situation is possible. Through times of economic upswing or crisis Japan and Germany's economic and legal cooperation has been profound for the longest time and thus overcame borders in culture and language. As for labour law in particular both countries share the general regulatory way by emphasizing the protection of employees with only natural differences remaining. Furthermore be it times of economic stability or uncertainty the acquisition of undertakings in the form of asset deals for business expansion or restructuring plays a significant role in both countries. The discontinuity of employment relationships upon such restructuring measures however bears great risks and insecurities for employees and calls for the legislator as well as the jurisdiction to provide for solutions Solutions have been found in Japan as well as in Germany although with significant differences yet to explore      Abridged Final Report with Resolutions World Meteorological Organization.
