Soil Hydrology, Land Use and Agriculture Manoj Shukla, 2011 Agriculture is strongly affected by changes in soil hydrology as well as changes in land use and management practices and the complex interactions between them. This book develops an understanding of these interactions on a watershed scale using soil hydrology models and addresses the consequences of land use and management changes on agriculture from a research perspective. Case studies illustrate the impact of land use and management on various soil hydrological parameters under different climates and ecosystems.

GIS Applications in Agriculture, Volume Four Tom Mueller, Gretchen F. Sassenrath, 2015-03-02 Conservation planning involves targeted management practices and land use decision making based on careful analysis of landscape limitations in order to protect soil and water resources. The Agricultural Policy Environmental eXtender (APEX) Model, 2009 The Agricultural Policy Environmental eXtender APEX model was developed by the Blacklands Research and Extension Center in Temple, Texas. APEX is a flexible and dynamic tool that is capable of simulating a wide array of management practices, cropping systems, and other land use across a broad range of agricultural landscapes, including whole farms and small watersheds. The model can be configured for novel land management strategies such as filter strip impacts on pollutant losses from upslope croplands, intensive rotational grazing scenarios depicting movement of cows between paddocks, vegetated grassed waterways in combination with filter strip impacts, and land application of manure removal from livestock feedlots or waste storage ponds. A description of the APEX model is provided, including an overview of all the major components in the model. Applications of the model are then reviewed, starting with livestock manure and other management scenarios performed for Livestock and the Environment. A National Pilot Project (NPP) and then continuing with feedlot, pesticide, forestry, buffer strip, conservation practice, and other management or land use scenarios performed at the plot, field, watershed, or regional scale. The application descriptions include a summary of calibration and/or validation results obtained for the different NPP assessments as well as for other APEX simulation studies. Available APEX Geographic Information System (GIS) based or Windows based interfaces are also described, as are forthcoming future improvements and additional research needs for the model. Paperbound Book Guide for Colleges, 1972 Astronomical Data Analysis Software and Systems XV Carlos Gabriel, 2006 Manual of
