Manipulated An Erotic Novel English Edition:

The Manipulation of Literature (Routledge Revivals) Theo Hermans, 2014-08-07 First published in 1985 the essays in this edited collection offer a representative sample of the descriptive and systematic approach to the study of literary translation. The book is a reflection of the theoretical thinking and practical research carried out by an international group of scholars who share a common standpoint. They argue the need for a rigorous scientific approach to the phenomena of translation, one of the most significant branches of Comparative Literature, and regard it as essential to link the study of particular translated texts with a broader methodological position. Considering both broadly theoretical topics and particular cases and traditions, this volume will appeal to a wide range of students and scholars across disciplines. Translation, Rewriting, and the Manipulation of Literary Fame Andre Lefevere, 2016-10-26 Lefevere explores how the process of rewriting works of literature manipulates them to ideological and artistic ends so that the rewritten text can be given a new, sometimes subversive, historical or literary status.

Ideological Manipulation of Children's Literature Through Translation and Rewriting Vanessa Leonardi, 2020-07-06 This book explores the topic of ideological manipulation in the translation of children's literature by addressing several crucial questions, including how target language norms and conventions affect the quality of a translation, how translations are selected on the basis of what is culturally accepted, who is involved in the selection of what should be translated for children in the target culture, and how this process takes place. The author presents different ways of looking at the translation of children's books, focusing particularly on the practices of intralingual and interlingual translations as a form of rewriting across a selection of European languages. This book will be of interest to Translation Studies and children's literature scholars as well as those with a wider interest in the impact of ideology on culture.

Translation and the Manipulation of Difference Tarek Shamma, 2014-06-03 Translation and the Manipulation of Difference explores the question of difference in translation and offers an extended critique of the advocacy of foreignizing translation as a practice that does not minimize the alterity of the foreign text and could therefore serve as an antidote to ethnocentrism and cultural insularity. Shamma examines the reception of Arabic literature, especially the Arabian Nights, in nineteenth-century England and offers a detailed analysis of the period's major translations from Arabic by Edward Lane, Richard Burton, and Wilfred Blunt. He demonstrates that the long, complicated history of interaction and confrontation between Europe and the Arab World, where misrepresentations of the Other were intricately embroiled with political struggles, provides a critical position from which to examine the crucial role of context, above and beyond the textual elements of the translation, in shaping the political effects of translation. Examining translation techniques and decisions in the context of the translators' own goals as well as the conditions that surrounded the reception of their work, the study shows how each translator manipulated his original in line with political positions that ranged from implicit acquiescence to steadfast resistance to colonialism. In a carefully elaborated critique of totalizing positions, the author argues that the foreignizing domesticating model is too limited to describe the social and political function of translation and calls for a more complex understanding of the sociopolitical dimensions of translation strategies
