1. The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need. This involves conducting market research to understand the target audience and their requirements. Once a need is identified, the next step is to develop a concept that addresses the need. This is followed by creating a prototype, which is a preliminary model of the product. The prototype is then tested to evaluate its feasibility and make necessary adjustments. Finally, the product is manufactured and distributed to the market.
