Qu y a t il de commun entre l ecologie le syst me conomique l entreprise la ville l organisme la cellule Rien si on se contente de les examiner avec l instrument habituel de la connaissance l approche analytique Beaucoup si l on d passe cette d marche classique pour faire ressortir les grandes r gles d organisation et de r gulation de tous ces syst mes Pour l auteur l instrument symbolique de cette nouvelle mani re de voir de comprendre et d agir est le macroscopie qui devrait tre aussi pr cieux aujourd hui aux responsables de la politique de la science de l industrie et chacun de nous que le sont le microscope et le t lescope pour la connaissance scientifique de l Univers Global Crisis and Restructuring Theory, analysis, and the case of Greece Charis Vlahos ,Nikolaos Denizos ,Dimos Chatzinikolaou ,2019-07-30

This book examines the global restructuring since its appearance from the late 2000s to the present It tries to describe and explore the fundamental dimensions of the phenomenon of the current crisis and repositioning of the global socioeconomic system by following an analytical perspective that exceeds a conjunctural perspective It counter proposes a view of examining the contemporary historical configurations of globalization dynamics in structural and evolutionary terms Finally it considers that a valid perception of the current global restructuring requires the simultaneous co examination of adaptation innovation and change management of the partial socioeconomic organizations sectors of economic activity and overall socioeconomic systems at all the organically linked levels of space local national international and global This book includes the following chapters that approach the phenomenon of global restructuring from converging perspectives 1 An evolutionary approach to the global crisis This chapter focuses on the structural and evolutionary examination of the current global crisis and restructuring of the global socioeconomic system It supports in terms of methodology that every global crisis analysis must perceive the historical and evolutionary character of the dynamics of global socio economic space from a unifying perspective It suggests that all the dynamic dimensions in the world s configuration economic technological social and geopolitical should be examined together in their dense dialectic co adaptation and co evolution The multi faceted crises and adjustments inside every socioeconomic system are both the products and the producers of globalization s overall trajectory in a co evolutionary course while contemporary capitalism respectively intensifies the dialectic reproduction of the global interdependence unceasingly This crisis condition therefore is sustained nourished and reproduced by the absence of a new wave of innovations throughout all the levels of socioeconomic activity and it requires the installation and assimilation of new effective change management mechanisms in order for any socioeconomic system to escape from it Arguably the challenge of building a new global developmental trajectory engages with all the levels of analysis and intervention the individual and the collective the material and the symbolic the national and the local the social and the economic the microeconomic the meso economic and the macroeconomic the cultural and the political The only sustainable way out of the global crisis as a result needs a progressive adaptation to new evolutionary thinking to perceive the global crisis dynamics 2 The current global socio economic crisis and restructuring from a conjunctural to a structural and evolutionary perspective The current global socio economic crisis and restructuring reshape the terms of the study of the global dynamics as a whole A new generation of interdisciplinary socio economic research on the matter in question seems to be progressively emerging in international literature Against this background any attempt to interpret the partial socio economic phenomena which relate to the crisis and the attempt to restructure globalization can only be inadequate and ineffective since it fails to adequately approach the current dynamics of globalization in synthetic and holistic terms In this direction new interpretative approaches seem to intensify the need for conceptual syntheses between the different fields of socio economic sciences in an increasingly unifying perspective by extensively borrowing directly and indirectly methods and theoretical lenses derived from systems science chaos theory and evolutionary economics In the depth of this methodological rearrangement according to the position put forward in this article it is crucial that an effort is made to move from a conjunctural to a structural perception of the crisis Ultimately the great challenge for the field of study of global dynamics nowadays is the transition from the methodological principles of the traditional mechanistic interpretative method to a coherent and integrated evolutionary socio economic perspective 3 Global crisis innovation and change management The crisis of capitalism is not of course an unprecedented discourse in the evolution of economics and the investigation of economic realities In the Neo Schumpeterian approach crises constitute necessary evolutionary steps intrinsically linked with breaking moments and change However what makes the current crisis different and subversive is its ever increasing structural complexity and evolutionary dialectic substance The mixing of cooperation and competition on an organizational and macro economic level reproduces on a global scale the need for a reconsideration of underlying economic regulation mechanisms The crisis tends to undermine and rapidly destroy the mechanistic relations and structures of all kinds and dimensions that have managed to provide profitability and effectiveness over recent years In this context the search for strategic innovation constant organizational renewal and the diffusion of production oriented at high technological expertise seem to progressively become the critical synthetic components for building a new development model This chapter focuses on the introduction of a three tier question which could be put forward as follows First it asks what the current global restructuring crisis is and what would be a new growth model that would lead to the exit of it on a global scale Second it addresses the issue of the required innovation mechanisms for a new model of inter spatial restructuring and development Finally it analyzes why this new innovative direction is a prerequisite for building new types of effective change management mechanisms The starting point of this approach is the position that any fragmented approach in the partial aspects of the triangle of global crisis innovation and change management is now analytically misguided and practically powerless Only an effort to systemically and evolutionarily understand the phenomenon in its continuous dialectic structure is now a sufficient condition for outlining the future development path of globalization at all levels of action 4 Structuring an anti crisis economic policy The Greek experience The objective of this study is to clarify the prevailing vague and sometimes misguided understanding regarding the articulation of economic policy especially in the context of socioeconomic systems in structural crisis The distortions of the economic policy keep reproducing and usually spreading because of three disorientating conceptual sources a the view of economic policy supposedly as a de ideologized construction or as a de technicalized voluntarism b the view of economic policy supposedly as a de strategized synthesis c the view of economic policy as a supposedly automatic ungraded and timeless procedure For a socioeconomic system to exit from its crisis the interruption of this vicious circle of misconceptions is a prerequisite towards the trajectory of a virtuous circle of understanding the meaning of the economic policy validly 5 A new approach of local development in crisis conditions Adopting a new local development policy to foster the local business ecosystems in Greece The competitiveness of the Greek economy evolves both in the present crisis and later on according to the dynamic micro level specific environments and transformations This evolution depends on the SME s abilities to claim a sustainable role in the new competitive global environment which is characterized by a continuous reshaping dynamic Respectively the goal of achieving development in the local scale becomes vital This chapter attempts to define a new framework by proposing a new business ecosystems approach and policy focusing on the implementation of a method for strengthening the SME s physiology This method proposes the construction of systematic knowledge and innovation creation and diffusion mechanisms on a local scale the Local Development and Innovation Institutes LDI s Subsequently this chapter analyzes regional data in Greece in order to highlight the most affected by the crisis region and to experimentally establish the Local Development and Innovation Institutes In conclusion this book proposes a new perspective of understanding the global dynamics and moves towards a repositioned perception of the phenomenon of global crisis and restructuring in structural and evolutionary terms Nowadays according to this analytical proposition organic and transversal innovations and the prerequisite change management mechanisms pose the central development question for the sustainable exit of the global crisis Moreover it seems that for socioeconomic systems in a structural crisis such as the Greek system a conjunctural perspective to confront the crisis prevails with insufficient results The structuration of economic policy in Greece until now reflects this methodological and interventional inefficiency in constructing anti crisis paths To rupture the vicious cycle of misunderstandings in economic policy formation and implementation and moving towards a new virtuous cycle of viable and long term development an evolutionary and historical understanding seems a prerequisite not only for Greece but also for other socioeconomic systems at a similar level of development Finally this continuous reshaping process of the global environment requires from all the agents of action new adaptation mechanisms The manner that local and national systems manage to achieve innovation and change management is critical and therefore policy initiatives such as the Local Development and Innovation Institutes that focus on fostering local innovation seem essential for constructing sustainable developmental trajectories The Cosmotheandric Experience Raimundo Panikkar,1998-01-01 The Cosmotheandric Experience is not a Christian or an Indic or a Buddhist study but an interdisciplinary study with a firm foundation It aims at an integration of the whole of reality We have to reconstruct the body of Prajapati even if some of the parts feel unworthy are shy or run away We have to think of all of the fragments of the present world in order to bring them together into a harmonious though not monolithic whole The Cosmotheandric principle which the author advocates could be formulated by saying that the divine the human and the earthly are three irreducible dimensions which constitute the real Handbook of Research on Quality Assurance and Value Management in Higher Education Nuninger, Walter,Châtelet, Jean-Marie,2016-03-21 The management of quality and sustainability in higher education institutions ensures that proper standards are maintained Such enforced standardization allows for the highest caliber of training opportunities for various fields and disciplines The Handbook of Research on Quality Assurance and Value Management in Higher Education is an authoritative reference source for the latest scholarly research on quality management and assurance programs and standards in college level environments Highlighting global perspectives on academic and professional learning this book is ideally designed for researchers policy makers practitioners and professionals actively involved in the field of higher education Earth System Analysis for Sustainability Hans-Joachim Schellnhuber,2004 This book presents the complete story of the inseparably intertwined evolution of life and matter on earth focussing on four major topics It analyzes the driving forces behind global change and uses this knowledge to propose principles for global stewardship Innovation Economics, Engineering and Management Handbook 2 Dimitri Uzunidis,Fedoua Kasmi,Laurent Adatto,2021-07-21 Innovation in economic activity in managerial concepts and in engineering design results from creative activities entrepreneurial strategies and the business climate Innovation leads to technological organizational and commercial changes due to the relationships between enterprises public institutions and civil society organizations These innovation networks create new knowledge and contribute to the dissemination of new socio economic and technological models through new production and marketing methods Innovation Economics Engineering and Management Handbook 2 is the second of the two volumes that comprise this book The main objectives across both volumes are to study the innovation processes in today's information and knowledge society to analyze how links between research and business have intensified and to discuss the methods by which innovation emerges and is managed by firms not only from a local perspective but also a global one The studies presented in these two volumes contribute toward an understanding of the systemic nature of innovations and enable reflection on their potential applications in order to think about the meaning of growth and prosperity Economics as a Moral Science Peter Rona,Laszlo Zsolnai,2017-04-13 The book is reclaiming economics as a moral science It argues that ethics is a relevant and inseparable aspect of all levels of economic activity from individual and organizational to societal and global Taking ethical considerations into account is needed in explaining and predicting the behavior of economic agents as well as in evaluating and designing economic policies and mechanisms The unique feature of the book is that it not only analyzes ethics and economics on an abstract level but puts behavioral institutional and systemic issues together for a robust and human view of economic functioning It sees economic facts as interwoven with human intentionality and ethical content a domain where utility calculations and moral considerations co determine the behavior of economic agents and the outcomes of their activities The book employs the personalist approach that sees human persons endowed with free will and conscience as the basic agents of economic life and defines human flourishing as the final end of economic activities The book demonstrates that economics can gain a lot in meaning and also in analytical power by reuniting itself with ethics

Divided Natures Kerry H Whiteside, 2002-02-01 In this book Kerry Whiteside introduces the work of a range of French ecological theorists to an English speaking audience He shows how thinkers in France and in English speaking countries have produced different strains of ecological thought and suggests that the work of French ecological theorists could lessen pervasive tensions in Anglophone ecology Much of the theory written in English is shaped by the debate between anthropocentric ecologists who contend that the value of our nonhuman surroundings derives from their role in fulfilling human interests and ecocentric ecologists who contend that the nonhuman world holds ultimate value in and of itself This debate is almost nonexistent among French theorists who tend to focus on the processes linking nature and human identity Whiteside suggests that the insights of French theorists could help English language theorists to extricate themselves from endless debates over the real center of nature's value Among the French theorists discussed are Denis de Rougemont Denis Duclos Ren Dumont Luc Ferry Andr Gorz Félix Guattari Bruno Latour Alain Lipietz Edgar Morin Serge Moscovici and Michel Serres The English language theorists discussed include John Barry Robyn Eckersley Robert Goodin Tim Hayward Holmes Rolston III and Paul Taylor
