Miss Fanny Devonport over Sarah Bernhardt as an actress the difficulty of obtaining green corn buckwheat cakes and hominy even in the best English houses the importance of Boston in the development of the world soul the advantages of the baggage check system in railway travelling and the sweetness of the New York accent as compared to the London drawl No mention at all was made of the supernatural nor was Sir Simon de Canterville alluded to in any way At eleven o'clock the family retired and by half past all the lights were out Some time after Mr Otis was awakened by a curious noise in the corridor outside his room It sounded like the clank of metal and seemed to be coming nearer every moment He got up at once struck a match and looked at the time It was exactly one o'clock He was quite calm and felt his pulse which was not at all feverish The strange noise still continued and with it he heard distinctly the sound of footsteps He put on his slippers took a small oblong phial out of his dressing case and opened the door Right in front of him he saw in the wan moonlight an old man of terrible aspect His eyes were as red burning coals long grey hair fell over his shoulders in matted coils his garments which were of antique cut were soiled and ragged and from his wrists and ankles hung heavy manacles and rusty gyves
