Mapping Gender in Ancient Religious Discourses Todd Penner, Caroline Vander Stichele, 2006-11-01 This collection of essays focuses on issues related to gender at the intersection of religious discourses in antiquity To that end an array of traditions is analyzed with the aim of more fully situating the construction and representation of gender in early Christian Jewish and Greco Roman argumentation Taken as a whole these essays contribute to the goal of displaying the wide range of options that are available for examining the interconnection of gender rhetoric power and ideology especially as they relate to identity formation in the ancient world during the early centuries of the common era The focus on ancient conceptions of gender makes this collection particularly useful not only for biblical scholars but also for classicists and researchers working in the field of gender studies as well as for those interested in exploring similar issues in other religious traditions or in Western religious traditions of different time periods Mapping Gender in Ancient Religious Discourses Todd C.

Caroline Vander Stichele, Todd Penner, 2009-06-30 In this book Vander Stichele and Penner introduce their own gender critical approach to the New Testament and other early Christian writings Building on feminist and post colonial insights they explore the importance of gender in both text and context and discuss the diverse issues involved in interpretation as they relate to gender sex and sexuality The authors also set out their methodology and highlight the various hermeneutical issues involved such as the complexity of gendered and sexed identities in antiquity and the gap that exists between modern and ancient conceptions thereof They further illustrate their gender critical approach with concrete examples from the Acts of the Apostles the letters of Paul and the Acts of Paul and Thecla in order to demonstrate how a gender critical approach works in practice As such this book is unique in terms of its range as well as in the explicit methodological focus that is fostered throughout Women and Gender in Ancient Religions Stephen P.
