Maps for Lost Lovers Nadeem Aslam, 2012-09-25 Set in a nameless British town that its Pakistani born immigrants have renamed Dasht e Tanhaii the Desert of Solitude Maps for Lost Lovers is an exploration of cultural tension and religious bigotry played out in the personal breakdown of a single family As the book begins Jugnu and Chanda whose love is both passionate and illicit have disappeared from their home Rumours about their disappearance abound but five months pass before anything certain is known Finally on a snow covered January morning Chanda's brothers are arrested for the murder of their sister and Jugnu Maps for Lost Lovers traces the year following Jugnu and Chanda's disappearance Seen principally through the eyes of Jugnu's brother Shamas the cultured poetic director of the local Community Relations Council and Commission for Racial Equality and his wife Kaukab mother of three increasingly estranged children and devout daughter of a Muslim cleric the event marks the beginning of the unravelling of all that is sacred to them It fills Shamas's own house and life with grief and in exploring the lovers disappearance and its aftermath Nadeem Aslam discloses a legacy of miscomprehension and regret not only for Shamas and Kaukab but for their children and neighbours as well An intimate portrait of a community searingly damaged by traditions this is a densely imagined beautiful and deeply troubling book written in heightened prose saturated with imagery It casts a deep gaze on themes as timeless as love nationalism and religion while meditating on how these forces drive us apart

The Politics of Muslim Intellectual Discourse in the West Dilyana Mincheva, 2016-01-15 This book is a case study in the literary psychoanalytic and theological encounters between diasporic Muslim intellectuals and secular western modernity It centres on the simultaneous search for the possibility of both a reformation of Islamic fundamentalism and a transformation of the exclusionary limitations of western public institutions With roots in original research in the fields of comparative religion and cultural studies and drawing on sources in English French and Arabic the author introduces and elaborates the concept of Western Islamic public sphere This concept defines what is at stake in the formative play of public representations where traditionalist foundations and modernist adaptations meet clash and produce discourse around their common disequilibrium The Western Islamic public sphere which is secular but not secularist and which is Islamic but not Islamist within which a critical Islamic intellectual universe can unfold deals hermeneutically with texts and politically with lived practices It emerges from within the arc of two alternative conflicting yet equally dismissive suspicions defined by a view that critical Islam is the new imperial rhetoric of hegemonic orientalism and the opposite view that critical Islam is just fundamentalism camouflaged in liberal rhetoric This innovative and original scholarly apparatus offers a third view one that arises in its practice from ethical commitment to intellectual engagement creativity and imagination as a portal to the open horizons of conflictual history

Culture, Diaspora, and Modernity in Muslim Writing Rehana Ahmed, Peter Morey, Amina Yaqin, 2012 Fiction by writers of Muslim background forms one of the most diverse vibrant and high profile corpora of work being produced today from the trail blazing writing of Salman Rushdie and Hanif Kureishi which challenged political and racial orthodoxies in the 1980s to that of a new generation including Mohsin Hamid Nadeem Aslam and Kamila Shamsie This collection reflects the variety of those fictions Experts in English South Asian and postcolonial literatures address the nature of Muslim identity its response to political realignments since the 1980s its tensions between religious and secular models of citizenship and its manifestation of these tensions as conflict between generations In considering the perceptions of Muslims contributors also explore the roles of immigration class gender and national identity as well as the impact of 9 11 This volume includes essays on contemporary fiction by writers of Muslim origin and non Muslims writing about Muslims It aims to push beyond the habitual populist framing of Muslims as strangers or interlopers whose ways and beliefs are at odds with those of modernity exposing the hide bound conservative assumptions that underpin such perspectives While returning to themes that are of particular significance to diasporic Muslim cultures such as secularism modernity multiculturalism and citizenship the essays reveal that Muslim writing grapples with the same big questions as serve to exercise all writers and intellectuals at the present time How does one reconcile the impulses of the individual with the requirements of community How can one belong in the modern world What is the role of art in making sense of chaotic contemporary experience

The Wasted Vigil Nadeem Aslam, 2009-09-08 From the author of Maps for Lost Lovers a new novel at once beautiful and blistering about war today told through the lives of five people who come together by chance and tragically revealed circumstance in post 9 11 Afghanistan Five disparate lives intersect through decades of invasion occupation and violence There s Marcus an English expat who was married to an outspoken Afghani doctor she was murdered by the Taliban who opens his home to the others the house itself a strange and beautiful monument to the inconceivable losses his family suffered David an American formerly a spy who has seen the Afghans through the invasion of the Russians the domination of the Taliban and now the incursion of the Americans and who has seen his own ideas of purpose and reason turned inside out Lara from St Petersburg looking for evidence of her brother a Russian soldier who disappeared years before Casa a young Afghani whose hatred of the Americans has plunged him into the blinding depths of zealotry and James an American soldier in the Special Forces in whom David sees a dangerous revival of the unquestioning notions of right and wrong that he himself once held In mesmerizing expressive prose Aslam reveals the intertwining paths that these characters have travelled and the complex ties of love and desperation pain and salvation madness and clarity that bind them Through their stories emerges a portrait both timely and timeless panoramic and achingly intimate of the continuation of wars that has shaped and continues to shape our world In its combination of radiant language hypnotic imagery and unflinching drama The Wasted Vigil is a luminous work of fiction

The Muslim quest between integration and provocation in contemporary Canadian writing. A close analysis of Rawi Hage's "Cockroach" Matthias Dickert, 2017-03-16 Document from the year 2017 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Literature Works Comenius University in

Bratislava language English abstract This essay is about Rawi Hage's novel Cockroach which at first sight is according to the Daily Telegraph A tale of murder intrigue and sex from the exuberantly talented Hage However Cockroach embodies more than this negative one sighted approach It is also a novel of migration exile diaspora and being unwanted because of being a foreigner of migrant background and Hage like Rushdie explores the hinterland between fantasy trauma and realism The unnamed narrator of the novel takes the reader by the hand and exposes this immigrant life in a chilly surrounding Chilly because people are cold and chilly because the climate is cold too The fact that Hage as a Lebanese born person uses a Canadian setting as the place of action already hints at two conditions of contemporary Muslim writing in general This refers to the autobiographical basis which many novels have and the use of the city as the background of the narration two presuppositions of Muslim writing since Rushdie and Kureishi Hage in Cockroach explores Montreal and presents it as an alien and hostile topography of menial jobs hidden or open xenophobia a mix of foreigners insect behaviours and class hostilities This narrator an exotic foreigner himself despises the world around him and takes the reader through a nightmare of Canadian reality on the basis of his violent childhood the death of his sister his exile situation and the helplessness of Canada which fails in the person of a court mandated psychiatrist His traumatic past and his inability as a man to protect the female members of his family are also symbols for a failed integration and the personal crisis of the narrator who seeks to find identity and a life at the border of physical and psychological death

Legend of a Suicide David Vann, 2010-03-16

The reportorial relentlessness of David Vann's imagination often makes his fiction seem less written than chiseled A small lovely book has been written out of his large and evident pain New York Times Book Review In Legend of a Suicide his heartbreaking semi autobiographical debut story collection David Vann relates the story of a young man trying to come to terms with the guilt and pain of his father's suicide The wild outback of the author's native Alaska acts as the ideal backdrop for this collage of six stories a novella and five shorts and mirrors the author's own psychological wilderness From an important new voice in American literature Robert Olen Butler Pulitzer Prize winning author of A Good Scent from a Strange Mountain comes an unforgettable exploration of the tragic gaps between one boy and his father

Female Pakistani

Fiction. A Critical Approach Matthias Dickert, 2015-09-17 Scientific Essay from the year 2015 in the subject Literature Asia Comenius University in Bratislava language English abstract This book is an introduction into female Pakistani Fiction It starts with some sort of background information on the catchphrase Pakistani Fiction in order to place the female aspect into its literary background A second step lies in a description of the position of this literary concept within Postcolonial Writing which is marked and shaped by so many different cultural and religious elements The short analysis of two selected novels Ice Candy Man 1991 by Bapsi Sidhwa and Brick Lane 2003 by Monica Ali should help to show how female Pakistani writers deal with female matters This literary reflection will be supported by three parameters which can be found in many novels dealing with this subject The talk is about gender diaspora and globalization all of which are used to portray female characters The end will consist of some sort of outlook where Pakistani Fiction stands at the moment and where its trends might go to

National and individual Muslim Trauma. The collision of Islam and American neocapitalist thinking in Nadeem Aslams "The Blind Man's Garden" Matthias Dickert, 2020-02-28 Scientific Essay from the year 2020 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature Comenius University in Bratislava language English abstract South Asian literature is a literary term closely connected to countries like India Pakistan Sri Lanka Nepal Bhutan the Maldives or Bangladesh Afghanistan here holds an outside position because of the fact that Afghan writers at home face an extremely difficult situation So it is mostly the exile position from which they write about their country Afghanistan nevertheless is often picked by migrant writers as a setting of their novels because it is ideal to reflect the 9 11 development for both character development or plot It is therefore logical that this country is not only a neglected part of South Asian literature it is also hardly mentioned by critics It is simply speaking difficult to label Afghan writing as colonial or neo colonial writing Many Muslim writers sometimes make use of female characters as being central parts for the narrative it is interesting to note that the female presentation plays a marginal role in history making or in the sense of ordering and interpreting past and present thus theorizing matters in general However growing female issues in many novels such as oppression prostitution rape domestic violence or birth control slowly seem to change the traditional female role as being inferior to man This present trend is not only seen by feminist anthropologists Western radical feminists or gender studies but also more and more by writers from both sexes Thus matters like patriarchy culture class religion or nation are newly discussed making South Asian Literature an extremely energetic field of contemporary migrant writing They fulfill that what other critics see in three areas while reading postcolonial contexts The first area they reflect is reading texts produced by writers from countries with a history of colonies The second element they discuss lies in the fact they write texts produced by those that have migrated from countries with a history of colonialism or those descended from migrant families And the last area they cover lies in the fact that they are re reading texts produced during colonialism addressing the imperial experience or not So one can conclude from this that South Asian literature has become not only one important element of Postcolonial writing it also includes many political aspects which are of importance for this essay Female Muslim Characters and the Lure of the Hybrid. "My name is Salma" by Fadia Faquir Matthias Dickert, 2016-01-13 Scientific Essay from the year 2016 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Literature Works Comenius University in Bratislava Englische Literatur language English abstract The intention of this essay is to give one important literary reflection of how female Muslim existence is presented in the contemporary English speaking novel The choice to concentrate on a female Muslim author results from the fact that female Muslim writing at the moment represents one of the strongest and most influential movements of writers coming from an Islamic background It is novelists like Bapsi Sidhwa Qaisra Sharaz Umera Ahmad Kamila Shamsie Sara Suleri or Monica Ali who have shown in their writings that most publications of female writers seem to present their characters in a more convincing and more multiple way than their male counterparts The structure of this essay is as follows The beginning will consist of some sort of background information which will cover fields all of which will help to understand the background these writers and their characters come from This literary analysis therefore starts with a critical reflection of Muslim writing This will then be followed by an excursion on the concept of hybridity under an Islamic focus because female hybrid existence in the West is the central parameter chosen here This essay will be followed by a closer analysis of Fadia Faquir s novel My name is Salma 2007 in order to give an example of female Muslim existence in the West and in the East It is exactly this span of two opposing worlds which finally brings about the main character s failure and death The end of this essay then will result in some sort of outlook where female Muslim writing might head to

Newsline ,2005 British Muslims under the Influence of Globalization and Migration Matthias Dickert, 2014-06-11 Scientific Essay from the year 2014 in the subject Politics Topic Globalization Political Economics language English abstract Despite its obvious importance the relationship between globalization migration and religion is a fairly neglected phenomenon in scientific research The religion of Islam is amongst the world religions to be hit the hardest by globalization processes At the same time more radical forms of Islam in the shape of fundamentalism seem to gain more and more influence in the West as well as in the Arabic world In Great Britain migration movements after World War II proved that Muslims are still not integrated in British society Most Muslims still ask themselves the question Are we Muslims in Britain or are we British Muslims This dilemma increased after 9 11 and 2005 and opened the doors for the radical ideas simply because Islam serves well to provide identity in a diaspora situation This essay tries to show how globalization migration and Islam are interwoven and in how far British society is threatened by fundamentalism which still hinders a dialogue on both sides Female Muslim Existence in the West. Failure or Emancipation Matthias Dickert, 2016-09-20 Scientific Essay from the year 2016 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature language English abstract Monica Ali s novel Brick Lane published in 2003 marked her literary breakthrough as a female Muslim writer of the second generation

She like many of her male predecessors such as Hanif Kureishi or Salman Rushdie chose London as the literary region to reflect matters like migration immigration assimilation cultural and religious backgrounds which she linked to classical matters of female writing such as emancipation One of the results from this was not only an insight into the Bengali community of the Tower Hamlets or the role of Muslim women in general but a double vision of Muslim and Western life in Great Britain The choice to focus on the Greater London Area also helped to concentrate on the new approach by Muslim writers of the second generation to work with the former notion of the postcolonial city in a new way while presenting London as a multicultural place This decision at present is accompanied by the second choice of these writers to also include former British colonies in order to better reflect the double background of their main characters Kia Abdullah like Ali also stems from the large Bengali community of the Tower Hamlets in London and it was no surprise that the presentation of her main female character Kieran Ali also provoked criticism and protest from her own community Her novel Life Love and Assimilation 2006 must however be seen as the more provocative novel since her main character chooses and lives emancipation in a more radical way This option is simply possible because Kieran unlike Nazneen the main character of Brick Lane belongs to the generation of Muslim girls and teenagers who were born and raised in Great Britain Both books can therefore be linked in the sense that they seem to start a discussion of female Muslim emancipation of immigrants Nazneen and girls being born and raised in the British Muslim community which still produces cultural and religious pressure on women To write about this and to show the role of women under Islam is of course provocative but this provocation is honest and necessary to discuss the present status of Muslim women in general The fact that both novels are based on an autobiographical background makes them even more convincing It does however also show that both sides East and West still have a long way to go to tear down traditional religious concepts which still consider the female to being inferior to the male
