1. A Brief Overview of the Course:

The course is intended to develop a rigorous understanding of core economic models and analysis, together with an ability to apply the analysis in a variety of contexts. The first semester focuses on developing and using models of supply and demand and on the underlying foundations of producer behaviour. The second semester examines the macroeconomy—economy-wide issues such as growth, inflation and unemployment.

Relevant mathematical techniques (e.g. solving linear equation systems, logs, basic calculus, maximization) are developed and applied to economic contexts as an integral part of the course.

Learning-by-doing, through problem solving and project work, is an important ingredient of the course, with regular on-line tests to reinforce an active approach to learning.

The course is primarily aimed at students who intend (or want to keep open the option) to progress to further study of economics in their 2nd year. Other students are welcome, but may find Economic Principles and Applications (EP&A) a more suitable alternative.

No previous study of economics is required, however students who have not previously studied economics may find it useful to take (or more informally follow) EP&A alongside Economics1A (see section 7).

A background in mathematics beyond GCSE level is required. Students with a weaker maths background will need to be prepared to work at developing their maths skills (see section 7).

2. Broad aims and intended learning outcomes

The Broad Aims of Economics 1A

- To provide each student with a sufficient understanding of basic economic theory and reasoning so that she or he can think independently and coherently about economic arguments, for example as to whether an article or leader in the Economist or Financial Times, or in some other broadsheet, makes economic sense.

Banking's Final Exam Morris Goldstein, 2017-05-30 Spurred by the success of the first stress test of US banks toward the end of the global economic crisis in 2009 stress testing of large financial institutions has become the cornerstone of banking supervision worldwide The aim of the tests is to determine which banks are adequately capitalized under severe economic shocks and to order corrective measures for those that are vulnerable In Banking's Final Exam one of the world's leading experts on banking regulation concludes that the tests administered on both sides of the Atlantic suffer from fundamental weaknesses leading to a false sense of reassurance about the safety and soundness of the banking system Some weaknesses can be corrected within the existing bank capital regime but others will require bold reforms including higher minimum capital requirements for the largest and most systemically important banks The banking industry is likely to resist these reforms but this book explains why their objections do not hold water

Lectures in Macroeconomics Kazimierz Łaski, 2019-06-27 Lectures in Macroeconomics A Capitalist Economy Without Unemployment provides a systematic account of the principle of aggregate demand based on the work of Polish economist Michał Kalecki best known as one of the originators of the Keynesian Revolution in macroeconomics The lectures demonstrate the importance of aggregate demand in determining total output and employment in the capitalist economy They show how the investment decisions of firms affect economic growth arguing that due to the unstable nature of investment it is important that the government has a central role in stabilizing the economy This English translation of Kazimierz Łaski's final work brings up to date fundamental concepts to give a picture of the twenty-first capitalist economy and the obstacles that must be overcome in bringing it to full employment It introduces the role of money and finance in the contemporary capitalist economy as well as the central role of the labour market and wages The analysis is illustrated with statistics and discussion around the evolution of capitalist economies and the rise of economic inequality since the Second World War culminating in the 2008 crisis and the economic deflation affecting Europe since that crisis Lectures in Macroeconomics remarks critically upon the neo-classical approach to economics that has brought about slow economic growth unemployment and inequality

The Flight of Icarus Yiannis Drossos, 2020-12-10 This book provides a detailed analysis of the institutional transformations brought about by the financial crisis focusing on the institution building course of Europe and the Constitution bending course in several Member States It discusses the seemingly contradictory interplay between national and European institutions and the law resulting from the crisis arguing that the anti-crisis exceptionality constitutes the matrix of the new normality of the reformed European economic governance The author carries out a critical analysis of the new economic governance and its case law with regular reference to relevant political episodes key economic figures and to the hitherto lax modes and rules The author also offers deep insights into the Greek adjustment programme and the crisis-related Greek and Portuguese constitutional case law presented in comparison with the German and French case law The book concludes with a critical overview of the profound mutations in the role of national Constitutions instigated by the new European economic governance and the emergence of a democratically deficient meta constitutional mode of functioning of both the European institutions and national Constitutions

Approaching Equality Roger A. McCain, 2017-05-26 Drawing on some recent research especially that of Piketty and his associates and on older ideas particularly from Sir Arthur Lewis Roger McCain proposes policies that together would aim to reverse the observed tendency towards the concentration of wealth in market economies thus approach equality The shortcomings and dangers of rising wealth inequality are discussed both from the point of view of increasing instability and of equalitarian values The American Economic Review ,1996 Economic and Social Survey of Asia and the Pacific United Nations Publications, 2016 The Survey 2014 will examine the regions challenges to support its economic growth and to promote inclusive and sustainable development Part I of the report will focus on the regions outlook as it contends with the ongoing global recovery and assesses the regions policy response to remaining and emerging vulnerabilities A special theme is domestic resource mobilization in Asia Pacific which will explore the challenges on strengthening tax revenues Part II of the report discusses strategic approaches to strengthen regional connectivity to achieve shared prosperity Horizons 2030 ,2016 This document presented by the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean ECLAC to its member States at its thirty sixth session provides an analytical complement to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development from a structuralist perspective and from the point of view of the Latin American and Caribbean countries The proposals made here stem from the need to achieve progressive structural change in order to incorporate more knowledge into production ensure social inclusion and combat the negative impacts of climate change The reflections and proposals for advancing towards a new development pattern are geared to achieving equality and environmental sustainability In these proposals the creation of global and regional public goods and the corresponding domestic policies form the core for expanding the structuralist tradition towards a global Keynesianism and a development strategy centred around an environmental big push Register ...
