

Chapter 4

Adjustments, Financial Statements, and the Quality of Earnings

Revised: : April 27, 2014

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

1. The accounting information processing cycle is a series of sequential phases (or steps) used in an accounting system to process data from the initial transactions to the end products – the periodic financial statements – and prepare the records for the next accounting cycle.
2. Phase 1 During the period: Perform transaction analysis, record journal entries, and post amounts to the general ledger (T-accounts).
Phase 2 End of the period: Prepare a trial balance, analyze account balances and prepare adjustments, record and post adjusting journal entries, prepare financial statements, and prepare and post the closing entries.
3. Adjusting entries are made at the end of the accounting period to record appropriate amounts of revenue, expenses, assets, liabilities and shareholders' equity.

The four different types are adjustments for:

- (a) Deferred expenses – previously recorded assets that need to be adjusted at the end of the period to reflect expenses that have been incurred or used up during the period (e.g., prepaid insurance must be adjusted for the portion of insurance expense incurred in the current period).
 - (b) Deferred revenues – previously recorded liabilities that need to be adjusted at the end of the period to reflect revenues that have been earned during the period (e.g., deferred revenue must be adjusted for the portion of revenues earned in the current period).
 - (c) Accrued revenues – revenues that have been earned by the end of the accounting period but which will be collected in a future accounting period (e.g., recording interest receivable for interest earned but not yet collected).
 - (d) Accrued expenses – expenses that have been incurred by the end of the accounting period but which will be paid in a future accounting period (e.g., recording an expense and a corresponding accrued liability for utilities used during the period but not yet paid).
4. A trial balance is a list of individual accounts, usually in financial statement order (assets, liabilities, shareholders' equity, revenues, and expenses), with their debit or credit balances. It is used to provide a check on the equality of the debits and credits.
