Report on Silica Sand, 2013 Employment, Recession and Recovery in the 50 States Joseph J. Seneca, 2011

When Caregivers Kill Betty L. Alt, Sandra K. Wells, 2010-04-16 From mothers who kill their children in postpartum fugues to fathers who murder their kids for revenge against an estranged wife the stories in this book are chilling yet real and bring home the message that children are vulnerable to violence even in the care of those who should love and protect them the most Sadly child murder by parents and caregivers happens more frequently than one might guess and while each case is different there are often warning signs that something might be amiss Signs of physical abuse may precede the ultimate act of murder A mother's mental state after the birth of a child may signal true distress and the potential for extreme actions No one can predict with certainty when a parent or other caregiver may snap but here Alt and Wells examine many cases of child murder to find out what they have in common how we might prevent such violence and what more we can do to protect children in potentially explosive situations African Migration, Human Rights and Literature Fareda Banda, 2020-12-24 This innovative book looks at the topic of migration through the prism of law and literature The author uses a rich mix of novels short stories literary realism human rights and comparative literature to explore the experiences of African migrants and asylum seekers The book is divided into two Part one is conceptual and focuses on art activism and the myriad ways in which people have sought to write justice Using Mazrui's diasporas of slavery and colonialism it then considers histories of migration across the centuries before honing in on the recent anti migration policies of western states Achiume is used to show how these histories of imposition and exploitation create a bond which bestows on Africans a status as co sovereigns of the First World through citizenship The many fictional examples of the schemes used to gain entry are set against the formal legal processes Attention is paid to life post arrival which for asylum seekers may include periods in detention The impact of the increased hostility of receiving states is examined in light of their human rights obligations Consideration is paid to how Africans navigate their post migration lives which includes reconciling themselves to status fracture taking on jobs for which they are over qualified while simultaneously dealing with the resentment borne of status threat on the part of the citizenry Part two moves from the general to consider the intersections of gender and status focusing on women LGBTI individuals and children Focusing on their human rights and the fictional literature chapter four looks at women who have been trafficked as well as domestic workers and hotel maids while chapter five is on LGBTI people whose legal and literary stories are only now being told The final substantive chapter considers the experiences of children who may arrive as unaccompanied minors Using a mixture of poetry and first person accounts the chapter examines the post arrival lives of children some of whom may be citizens but who are continually made to feel like outsiders The conclusion follows starting with two stories about walls by Hadero and Lanchester which are used to illustrate the themes discussed in the book Few African lawyers write about literature and few books and articles in Western law and literature look at books by or about Africans so a book that engages with both is long overdue This book provides fascinating reading for academics students of law literature gender and migration studies and indeed the general public
