Optical transport networking

New 40/43 Gb/s networks will allow operators to further enhance transport capacity in the optical network, extend distances between systems, and improve its flexibility and responsiveness in setting up new high-bandwidth services as well as lowering operating costs for these services.

Market drivers

High-end core routers with 40 Gb/s short reach interfaces are becoming an important market driver, reducing the number of interconnecting fibers within the central office. Big benefits are the lower cost, space and power consumption. In long-haul networks, a key to 40 Gb/s migration is the ability to utilize the existing line system. In metro-regional networks, e.g. city-hoppers applications, 40 Gb/s can also be used very cost effectively.

Challenges

New, high bit rate networks create enormous challenges for equipment vendors not only because they push the boundaries of physics, but also because every network component must be perfectly designed, installed and tuned. The point at which networks are installed, turned up and commissioned will prove critical. A new generation of test equipment capable of meeting the demands of 40/43 Gb/s systems will be required at each stage of network design, system verification and validation, network installation, maintenance, and troubleshooting.

Optical transport test solution

The JDSU ONT-506/512 enables evaluation and characterization of 40/43 Gb/s electrical/ optical devices. The ONT supports unframed BER testing, and framed SDH/SONET/OTN functional testing including jitter/ wander generation and analysis. The modular concept starts with 3 slots for 40 Gb/s optical framed and unframed. Further modules can be added to enable electrical interfaces and jitter/ wander applications. In addition, the programmable hardware architecture allows to add a payload module for the combined OTN with SDH/SONET client testing and to assure the future-proof for further applications.
