

Learning is the process of acquiring knowledge in a particular field of study. Learning is influenced by various factors including motivation which plays an integral role in the learning process. There are four contexts that motivate learning. These include practical, personal, experimental, and idealistic contexts. Firstly, practical context refers to the urge to learn something that makes someone more skilled in a particular field. Practical context lays more emphasis on improving one's mastery of technical skills and ability at large. Secondly, personal context that motivate learning relates to ones' family background and past experiences. Therefore, one is motivated to study so as to do prosper in his or her life. For instance, if ones' parents did not perform well in school, this may be a source of motivation to study hard. Thirdly, experimental context that motivates learning refers to real experiences through which someone can get the meaning of what he or she is studying. Fourthly, idealistic context that motivates learning refers to the pleasure that one gets from studying different things and exploring new things and ideas. My learning is motivated by the personal context. Throughout my childhood, I never got what I desired. This is in terms of the school I started schooling from, the toys I played with, and where we resided. This is because my parents did not do very well in school. As such, they were unable to find good paying jobs. My personal experience has always formed the basis of my motivation to learn and nurture my career. This is because I would like to my kids and I to live a better life in the future. I believe I can only realize my dreams through studying.

Motivation and Work Performance. The Effects of Intrinsic and Extrinsic Motivation on Work Performance Jan U., 2021-07-21 Seminar paper from the year 2018 in the subject Leadership and Human Resources Employee Motivation Employee Satisfaction grade 1.3 University of Mannheim language English abstract The purpose of this paper is to investigate the effects of intrinsic and extrinsic motivation on work performance within the R D environment and provide practical recommendations Substantial research has been conducted to investigate the construct of motivation and to validate its impact on core business outcomes within varying environments According to Rani and Lenka 2012 the motivational process affects an individual's strength and persistence of behaviour Thus motivated individuals are activated to behave in a more creative productive and persistent way Prevailing literature validates this positive effect For example Deci and Ryan 2008a argue that there is a significant link between motivation and positive work related outcomes such as psychological well being and work performance Considering this convincing evidence further research tried to investigate this relationship within varying settings An area that has aroused major attention is the R D environment Within this context managers face several obstacles in establishing high levels of motivation Clarke 2002 mentions for example the differing values and expectations of R D specialists the uncertainty of outcomes and the difficulty in measuring the results For high levels of motivation and performance to occur managers need to respond to the needs of the R D professionals without losing sight of the company's major objectives Based on the work of Deci Vallerand Pelletier and Ryan 1991 and their distinction between intrinsic and extrinsic motivation studies in the R D management literature validate the importance of both motivational constructs within this context However in practice organizations like BMW may be incentivized to primarily focus on extrinsic rewards Extrinsic incentive systems such as salary increases or bonuses can easily be established fairly measured and provide a clear link between the employees monetary motives and the organizations objectives Further intrinsic motivation may be neglected due to difficulties and increased efforts of implementing such incentives As a result of this neglect of their workers intrinsic needs and desires the motivation within the R D department and in turn the work
