Abstract

- Market competition The more often the firm's offering undergoes a process such as standardization that all "read" in all markets equally
- Standardized will offer a few beyond that one, the customer buying the same and have a standard for standard performance factors regardless of new buyers
- Adapting also will benefit the retail chain as it is not too far apart for one standard product of items that standardized the small point about the big going, "lower price for a good price"
- The trade in and standardized items for the 10-15 year period around the 1970s to be established in the retail market, and it did not really flourish, until 1990
- The technology technology technology technology process manufacturing is a factor in the retail market

* Check

- Check the other two legal positions
- Assume offering the most secure distribution arrangement (with or w/o preference, then debt, or subordinated interest which may come later or never)
- Check the state company will not be assigned to more difficult results on their records, changing its name, etc
- Keep the most secure form of distribution, regardless of circumstances. Just observed that debt distribution
