Moos, 1997-01-01 This book presents the social ecological approach to the comparison and evaluation of treatment environments Social ecology is concerned with the environment and how people adapt to it The field deals with both the physical and the social environment It combines basic research approaches with a dedication to resolving common human problems The procedures developed in this classic volume have been used to monitor and improve treatment programs to assess the adequacy of program implementation and to understand the determinants and outcomes of specific aspects of treatment environments Cancer in Context James Brennan, Clare Moynihan, 2004 This book offers healthcare professionals academics and anyone affected by cancer a fresh and original approach to the supportive care of people with cancer It looks at the underlying reasons why cancer so often leads to high levels of distress and more importantly it suggests many practical ways distress can be minimised and prevented The actual experiences of cancer patients as recorded in their personal diaries are combined with theory research and practical clinical advice In each of its seven chapters Cancer in Context takes a different perspective towards supportive care in cancer It begins by considering how people in general manage and adjust to massive changes in their lives and in particular how they react to the threat of cancer It goes on to examine the lived experience of people with cancer as they negotiate the many changes and challenges that follow their diagnosis Of course cancer doesn't only affect the person who has the disease it also impacts on families partners and carers One chapter explores these and other issues such as sexual difficulties the needs of older people single people and gay and lesbian couples Chapter 4 shows that the social and cultural context of a person's life is critical to understanding their resources the way they are treated and the responses they make to serious illness However it is in the clinical context that professionals have an opportunity to minimise disruption to their patients quality of life as they endure the notorious demands of oncology treatments The book offers practical clinical advice on psychosocial aspects of conventional cancer treatments common treatment difficulties cancer rehabilitation and palliative care Chapter 6 provides a summary of the burgeoning area of information and communication skills within healthcare and finally the book ends by
