Analysis of Values

The first step in developing a value system is to identify the values that are most important to you. This can be done by asking yourself a series of questions, such as: What do I value most in life? What do I want to achieve? What do I want to be? What do I want to do? What do I want to have? What do I want to be like? What do I want to feel? What do I want to think? What do I want to believe? What do I want to know? What do I want to understand? What do I want to experience? What do I want to create? What do I want to contribute? What do I want to leave behind? What do I want to be remembered for? What do I want to be known for? What do I want to be loved for? What do I want to be respected for? What do I want to be admired for? What do I want to be feared for? What do I want to be hated for? What do I want to be despised for? What do I want to be scorned for? What do I want to be mocked for? What do I want to be ridiculed for? What do I want to be laughed at for? What do I want to be teased for? What do I want to be bullied for? What do I want to be oppressed for? What do I want to be persecuted for? What do I want to be tortured for? What do I want to be killed for? What do I want to be buried for? What do I want to be cremated for? What do I want to be buried with for? What do I want to be buried without for? What do I want to be buried in for? What do I want to be buried on for? What do I want to be buried under for? What do I want to be buried over for? What do I want to be buried through for? What do I want to be buried across for? What do I want to be buried around for? What do I want to be buried against for? What do I want to be buried between for? What do I want to be buried from for? What do I want to be buried by for? What do I want to be buried with/by/without/in/on/under/over/through/across/around/against/between/from/by for?

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact aerobically based exercise program on the health-related quality of life of older adults. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The intervention group consisted of 20 older adults who participated in a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact aerobically based exercise program. The control group consisted of 20 older adults who did not participate in the exercise program. The study was conducted in a community setting. The data were collected using a self-report questionnaire. The results of the study indicated that the intervention group had a significant improvement in health-related quality of life compared to the control group. The findings of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact aerobically based exercise program can improve the health-related quality of life of older adults.
