London Roy Porter, 1996 This work describes London's social life its growth and the experiences of living in the city With the redevelopment of Docklands and much of the East End London is now beginning to experience a transformation comparable in scale to those produced by the building of the West End or the coming of the railways in earlier centuries As such the 1990s is an ideal opportunity to re-examine the social history of the environment in which for several centuries more people lived worked played and died than in other cities in the West London Robert O. Bucholz, Joseph P.

Ward, 2012-07-09 Between 1550 and 1750 London became the greatest city in Europe and one of the most vibrant economic and cultural centres in the world This book is a history of London during this crucial period of its rise to world wide prominence during which it dominated the economic political social and cultural life of the British Isles as never before nor since London incorporates the best recent work in urban history contemporary accounts from Londoners and tourists and fictional works featuring the city in order to trace London's rise and explore its role as a harbinger of modernity while examining how its citizens coped with those achievements London covers the full range of life in London from the splendid galleries of Whitehall to the damp and sooty alleyways of the East End Readers will brave the dangers of plague and fire witness the spectacles of the Lord Mayor's Pageant and the hangings at Tyburn and take refreshment in the city's pleasure gardens coffee houses and taverns London Robert O. The Greening of London, 1920-2000 Matti O. Hannikainen, 2017-05-15 The long term development of public green spaces such as parks public gardens and recreation grounds in London during the twentieth century is a curiously neglected subject despite the fact that various kinds of green spaces cover huge areas in cities in the UK today This book explores how and why public green spaces have been created and used in London and what actors have been involved in their evolution during the course of the twentieth century Building on case studies of the contemporary boroughs of Camden and Southwark and making use of a wealth of archival material the author takes us through the planning and creation stages to the intended and actual uses and ongoing management of the spaces By highlighting the rise and fall of municipal authorities and the impact of neo liberalism after the 1970s the book also deepens our understanding of how London has been governed planned and ruled during the twentieth century It makes a crucial contribution to academic as well as political discourse on the history and present role of green space in sustainable cities

O. Bucholz,Joseph Ward,2014-05-14 Our contemplation of London must begin as London began at the river The River Thames is a slow moving and rather murky body of water flowing west to east about a quarter to an eighth of a mile wide as it passes through the city To this day the sinewy thread of the Thames is London s most notable topographical feature the curving line around which the metropolis orientates itself As we have seen this was not by chance The Romans founded London in imitation of their own great capital city so that London like Rome sits on its river at exactly the spot where it narrows enough to bridge see Map 1 That confluence of west east river and south north bridge made London both a military choke point and an economic funnel long before our arrival sometime in 1550 Ibss: Political Science: 1994 British Library of Political and Economic Science at the London School of Economics,1995-12-08 The IBSS is the essential tool for librarians university departments research institutions and any public or private institution whose work requires access to up to date and comprehensive knowledge of the social sciences Catalogue of the Guildhall Library of the City of London Guildhall (London). - Library,1889 A Bibliography of the Historical Works of Dr. Creighton, Late Bishop of London; Dr. Stubbs, Late Bishop of Oxford; Dr. S.
