Journalism And Mass Communication Educator:

Exploring Mass Communication Vincent F. Filak, 2023-11-28 Exploring Mass Communication by Vincent F. Filak maps our digital media landscape discussing connections, disconnections, and key theories. It encourages students to engage critically with media, improving their daily lives while embracing inclusivity and diversity in a fresh, modern style. Mass Media Education in Transition Thomas Dickson, 1999-08-01 Media educators have long been debating the nature and purpose of media education. Issues relating to new technologies and the changing state of the media industry are ongoing concerns, but some of the most difficult questions go to the actual structure of media education itself. Is it best represented as an integrated field? Should it merge with other communication subfields or potentially split into several separate fields? Media practitioners complicate matters further by questioning the necessity for media education at all. The continued consideration of and reaction to these issues will have a significant effect on media-related education and its associated practices. In Mass Media Education in Transition, Thomas Dickson gives careful consideration to the state of media education and its future directions. He provides a history of mass media-related education as well as an overview of the major issues affecting media education at the end of the 20th century. He incorporates the visions of media education leaders as to the possible directions the field may take in the next century and includes in his discussion information that has been previously unknown or not readily available to media educators. This volume provides a broad view of the major issues affecting all aspects of media education: print and broadcast journalism, advertising, public relations, and media studies. It also offers detailed insights as to the possibilities that lie ahead as the field continues to develop a new professionalism or a return to a prior vision of media-related education or possibly something quite different. Seeking Equity for Women in Journalism and Mass Communication Education Ramona R. Rush, Carol E. Oukrop, Pamela J. Creedon, 2013-04-03 This volume concentrates on the study and efforts of women and minority men to gain respect and parity in journalism and mass communication and focuses on trends over the past three decades. Contributions to the volume provide a history of the equity efforts and offer updates on equity in the academy and in the professions. Theoretical and international perspectives on equity are also included, as are the concerns about equity from the new generations now coming into the profession. This anthology serves as a benchmark of women's current status in journalism and mass communication and provides a call to action for the future. As such, it is required reading for all concerned with establishing equity throughout the discipline. Journalism Education, Training and Employment Bob Franklin, Donica Mensing, 2010-12-14 During this period of rapid and significant change in journalistic practices, journalism educators are re-examining their own profession and contributing to the invention of new models and practices. This edited volume of studies by respected international scholars describes the diverse issues journalism educators are grappling with and the changes they are making in purpose and practice. The book is organized into three sections: education, training, and employment, that explore common themes. How the assumptions embedded in journalism education are being examined and revised in the light of transformative changes in communication How the definitions of journalism and journalists are broadening in scope and what this means for educators How newsrooms and training programs around the world are being re examined and made more effective An introductory essay and section summaries provide context for the thirteen chapters that constitute the collection The section on journalism education explores fundamental ways educators are seeking to make their institutions and practices stronger and more responsive The section on training includes case studies of journalism training programs in sub Saharan Africa Turkey Sweden and the U S The final section examines the job prospects and employment market for journalism students with data from the U S U K Australia and Sweden The scope of issues considered in the book makes it a valuable resource for journalism scholars from around the world as well as doctoral students journalism and communication administrators in universities organizations that fund journalism training programs and practitioners interested in understanding employment and education trends
