Testing Times Willis Richard, 2014-02-07 This book focuses on the delivery of public examinations offered by the main examining boards in England since Victorian England The investigation reveals that the provision of examinations was as controversial in the nineteenth century as it is today particularly since the government is now determined to bring in reform The issues of grade inflation the place of coursework in marking and the introduction of technological change all feature in this book Educational policy is primarily examined as well as some reference to the global scene The study analyses archival material from a wide range of sources including those records stored at the National Archives and the London Metropolitan Archives An emphasis is placed upon the various institutions that contributed to the process including the Royal Society of Arts the London Chamber of Commerce the City of Guilds of London Institute and the University of London Attention is given to the findings of the Taunton Commission and the Bryce Commission and shorter reports such as the Northcote Trevelyn Report which served to radicalise entry and recruitment to the Civil Service The modern GCSE and the plans for I levels are considered and key observations are made about the efficacy of those examinations offered by Oxford and Cambridge universities and O levels A levels and NVQs The reader is given every opportunity to benefit enthusiastically in this account of examinations and those engaged in education whether teachers examiners students or administrators will be able to gain useful insights into the workings of the examination system

Language in Epistemic Access Caroline Kerfoot, Anne-Marie Simon-Vandenberg, 2018-07-26 This book focuses on how to address persistent linguistically structured inequalities in education primarily in relation to South African schools but also in conversation with Australian work and with resonances for other multilingual contexts around the world The book as a whole lays bare the tension between the commitment to multilingualism enshrined in the South African Constitution and language in education policy and the realities of the dominance of English and the virtual absence of indigenous African languages in current educational practices It suggests that dynamic plurilingual pedagogies can be allied with the explicit scaffolding of genre based pedagogies to help redress asymmetries in epistemic access and to re imagine policies pedagogies and practices more in tune with the realities of multilingual classrooms The contributions to this book offer complementary insights on routes to improving access to school knowledge especially for learners whose home language or language variety is different to that of teaching and learning at school All subscribe to similar ideologies which include the view that multilingualism should be seen as a resource rather than a problem in education Commentaries on these chapters highlight evidence based high impact educational responses and suggest that translanguaging and genre may well offer opportunities for students to expand their linguistic repertoires and to bridge epistemological differences between community and school This book was originally published as a special issue of Language and Education      Teaching Mathematics Creatively Linda Pound, Trisha
