The nurse assesses a postoperative client whose skin is cool, pale, and moist. The client is very restless and has scant urine output. Oxygen is being administered at 2 L/min, and a saline lock is in place. Which intervention should the nurse implement first?

- A. Measure the urine specific gravity.
- B. Obtain IV fluids for infusion per protocol.
- C. Prepare for insertion of a central venous catheter.
- D. Auscultate the client's breath sounds.

B

The client is at risk for hypovolemic shock because of the postoperative status and is exhibiting early signs of shock. A priority intervention is the initiation of IV fluids (B) to restore tissue perfusion. (A, C, and D) are all important interventions, but are of less priority than (B).

- A. "Pace your activities and schedule rest periods."
- B. "Increase the amount of oxygen you use at night."
- C. "Obtain medical evaluation for antibiotic therapy."
- D. "Reduce your intake of fluids containing caffeine."

A

Manifestations of emphysema include an increase in AP diameter (referred to as a barrel chest), nail bed clubbing, and fatigue. The nurse can provide instructions to promote energy management, such as pacing activities and scheduling rest periods (A). (B) may result in a decreased drive to breathe. The client is not exhibiting any symptoms of infection, so (C) is not necessary. (D) is less beneficial than (A).

During the change of shift report, the charge nurse reviews the infusions being received by clients on the oncology unit. The client receiving which infusion should be assessed first?

- A. Continuous IV infusion of magnesium
- B. One-time infusion of albumin
- C. Continuous epidural infusion of morphine
- D. Intermittent infusion of IV vancomycin

C

All four of these clients have the potential to have significant complications. The client with the morphine epidural infusion (C) is at highest risk for respiratory depression and
