

The Impact of Media Violence on Adolescent Behavior

The world we live in thrives on media use; it is useful in all aspects of life. Children spend lots of time watching television, playing video games, listening to music and using the internet. The average U.S child spends about four and a half hours listening to music, four and a half hours watching television or movies and seven hours a day on social media. Media violence is a threat to adolescents and it increases violence and aggression. "Exposure to violence in media, including television, movies, music, and video games, represents a significant risk to the health of children and adolescents. Extensive research evidence indicates that media violence can contribute to aggressive behavior, desensitization to violence, nightmares, and fear of being harmed." While many think that violent media doesn't have an impact on adolescents because it isn't real, adolescent behavior is in fact affected by aggressive media.

Digesting violent or aggressive activity regularly negatively affects a child's subconscious mind. Repeatedly viewing such behaviors embed certain ideas in the subconscious mind to be considered good, even if it is not. People and Society explain how to positively impact a child's subconscious mind, "Children are very receptive during these ages (zero to eight) when their right brains are active and their left brains - which includes critical thinking - are not yet fully functional. It is during those formative years that subconscious mind programming naturally occurs. It is how people sabotage their success the hurtful words." One's subconscious mind is their auto function, it allows one to breathe, holds fight or flight mechanisms, and beliefs. Children and adolescents shouldn't view violent media because it can affect their
