5 pages | 1078 words

Social media platforms have a negative effect on women and how they view themselves. Body image is simply the way we identify ourselves when we look in the mirror and envision ourselves to look and act a specific way. We live in a culture where beauty and slimness are exceptionally esteemed for women especially through the media. Women with negative body image become regularly infatuated with parts of their body they disdain. The area of communication is interpersonal communication because women strive to look like people that they tend to see behind the screen and believe that this is the way they should look like. In this paper, I will document how in our society today body dissatisfaction has become increasingly prevailing among women of all ages where the standards of beauty is wrongly accepted due to the immense amount of altering methods that grants users the option to manipulate photos. "There is a mediated norm for body image in present-day culture, and it is characterized by bodies that are extremely thin. This mediated thin-ideal is presented in mainstream media, and mainstream media are a source women turn for information about how to look" (Hendriks & Burgoon, 2003). There are several studies that discuss and provide information on how the media affects body image issues in women. Social media platforms provide a negative body image. Women are more likely to develop body image issues because of contrasting themselves to social standards as depicted in online networking portrayals. Social networking sites such as Instagram offers users the chance to manipulate photos by using several techniques and numerous options to improve an image like using filters, brightness, or even change size or appearance of one's body gestures. This availability has allowed women to post the most alluring pictures of themselves on social media sites and upgrade them to look like pictures which are regularly edited. "Altering digital imagery is now ubiquitous. People have come to expect it in the fashion and entertainment world, where airbrushing blemishes and wrinkles away is a routine" (Farid, 2009). This opportunity to edit images and exposure of manipulated images has a negative influence on body image of (women) giving them the chance to look like women they see on social media sites. The Social Comparison Theory proposes that people are constantly evaluating themselves and do so by comparing themselves to others (Festinger, 1954). This could happen in a circumstance with bunches and individuals seen in media such as celebrities. The comparison of one's self to others will, as a rule, result in one of two things; being either superior or more awful. Downward comparison happens when...
