U. S. Military First Aid Manual Department of Defense, 2002-12-23 This manual meets the first aid training needs of individual service members Because medical personnel will not always be readily available the nonmedical service members must rely heavily on their own skills and knowledge of life sustaining methods to survive on the integrated battlefield This publication outlines both self aid and aid to other service members buddy aid More importantly it emphasizes prompt and effective action in sustaining life and preventing or minimizing further suffering and disability First aid is the emergency care given to the sick injured or wounded before being treated by medical personnel The term first aid can be defined as urgent and immediate lifesaving and other measures which can be performed for casualties by nonmedical personnel when medical personnel are not immediately available Nonmedical service members have received basic first aid training and should remain skilled in the correct procedures for giving first aid This manual is directed to all service members The procedures discussed apply to all types of casualties and the measures described are for use by both male and female service members This publication is in consonance with the following North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO International Standardization Agreements STANAGs and American British Canadian and Australian Quadripartite Standardization Agreements QSTAGs Medical Training in First Aid Basic Hygiene and Emergency Care First Aid Kits and Emergency Medical Care Kits Medical First Aid and Hygiene Training in NBC Operations First Aid Material for Chemical Injuries When a nonmedical service member comes upon an unconscious or injured service member he must accurately evaluate the casualty to determine the first aid measures needed to prevent further injury or death He should seek medical assistance as soon as possible but he should not interrupt the performance of first aid measures To interrupt the first aid measures may cause more harm than good to the casualty Remember that in a chemical environment the service member should not evaluate the casualty until the casualty has been masked After performing first aid the service member must proceed with the evaluation and continue to monitor the casualty for development of conditions which may require the performance of necessary basic lifesaving measures such as clearing the airway rescue breathing preventing shock and controlling bleeding He should continue to monitor the casualty until relieved by medical personnel Service members may have to depend upon their first aid knowledge and skills to save themselves self aid or other service members buddy aid combat lifesaver They may be able to save a life prevent permanent disability or reduce long periods of hospitalization by knowing WHAT to do WHAT NOT to do and WHEN to seek medical assistance NOTE The prevalence of various body armor systems currently fielded to US service members and those in development for future fielding may present a temporary obstacle to effective evaluation of an injured service member You may have to carefully remove the body armor from the injured service member to complete the evaluation or administer first aid Begin by removing the outer most hard or soft body armor components open unfasten or cut the closures fasteners or straps then remove any successive layers in the same manner Be sure to follow other notes cautions and warnings regarding procedures in contaminated situations and when a broken back or neck is suspected Continue to evaluate

A Reference Handbook of the Medical Sciences Albert Henry Buck, 1893 First Aid Department of the Army, 2017-08-18 Training Circular TC 4 02 1 First Aid provides first aid techniques and guidance for Soldiers. Implementation of the techniques presented in this publication enable Soldiers to render first aid and prevent greater harm to injured Soldiers. Because medical personnel will not always be readily available, nonmedical Soldiers must rely on themselves and other Soldiers' skills and knowledge of first aid methods to render aid until medical assistance arrives. First aid is given until medical care is provided by medically trained personnel such as a combat medic or other health care provider arrives. The individual being provided first aid by self aid, buddy aid, or combat lifesaver is considered a casualty. Once medically trained personnel (combat medic, paramedic, or other health care provider) initiates care, the casualty is then considered to be a patient. Training Circular 4 02 1 provides first aid procedures for nonmedical personnel in environments from home station to combat situations. This publication is meant to be used by trainers and individuals being trained based on common first aid tasks. Tasks are found in the Soldier's Manual of Common Tasks, Warrior Skills Level 1, and appropriate modified tasks from the Soldier's Manual and Trainer's Guide, Military Occupational Specialty MOS 68W. These tasks are meant to reinforce and maintain proficiency in correct procedures for giving first aid throughout a Soldier's time in Service. Training Circular 4 02 1 is designed to facilitate training and first aid competencies by bridging first aid training across the spectrum of assignments from training to permanent duty station and deployment. Tactical combat casualty care (TC3) is introduced in TC 4 02 1 with first aid tasks and procedures associated with combat situations. Individual and multiple first aid tasks in combination with collective tasks may be integrated into various training scenarios.
