Intelligent Systems for Crisis Management Orhan Altan, Madhu Chandra, Filiz Sunar, Tullio Joseph Tanzi, 2019-02-06 In the past several years there have been significant technological advances in the field of crisis response However many aspects concerning the efficient collection and integration of geo information applied semantics and situation awareness for disaster management remain open Improving crisis response systems and making them intelligent requires extensive collaboration between emergency responders disaster managers system designers and researchers alike To facilitate this process the Gi4DM GeoInformation for Disaster Management conferences have been held regularly since 2005 The events are coordinated by the Joint Board of Geospatial Information Societies JB GIS and ICSU GeoUnions This book presents the outcomes of the Gi4DM 2018 conference which was organised by the ISPRS URSI Joint Working Group ICWG III IVa Disaster Assessment Monitoring and Management and held in Istanbul Turkey on 18-21 March 2018 It includes 12 scientific papers focusing on the intelligent use of geo information semantics and situation awareness Numerical and Evolutionary Optimization 2018 Adriana Lara, Marcela Quiroz, Efrén Mezura-Montes, Oliver Schütze, 2019-11-19 This book was established after the 6th International Workshop on Numerical and Evolutionary Optimization NEO representing a collection of papers on the intersection of the two research areas covered at this workshop numerical optimization and evolutionary search techniques While focusing on the design of fast and reliable methods lying across these two paradigms the resulting techniques are strongly applicable to a broad class of real world problems such as pattern recognition routing energy lines of production prediction and modeling among others This volume is intended to serve as a useful reference for mathematicians engineers and computer scientists to explore current issues and solutions emerging from these mathematical and computational methods and their applications

The Psychology of Magic and the Magic of Psychology Amir Raz, Jay A. Olson, Gustav Kuhn, 2016-11-18 Magicians have dazzled audiences for many centuries however few researchers have studied how let alone why most tricks work The psychology of magic is a nascent field of research that examines the underlying mechanisms that conjurers use to achieve enchanting phenomena including sensory illusions misdirection of attention and the appearance of mind control and nuanced persuasion Most studies to date have focused on either the psychological principles involved in watching and performing magic or neuromagic the neural correlates of such phenomena Whereas performers sometimes question the contributions that modern science may offer to the advancement of the magical arts the history of magic reveals that scientific discovery often charts new territories for magicians In this research topic we sketch out the symbiotic relationship between psychological science and the art of magic On the one hand magic can inform psychology with particular benefits for the cognitive social developmental and transcultural components of behavioural science Magicians have a large and robust set of effects that most researchers rarely exploit Incorporating these effects into existing experimental even clinical paradigms paves the road to innovative trajectories in the study of human behaviour For example magic provides an elegant way to study the behaviour of participants who may believe they had made choices that they actually did not make Moreover magic fosters a more ecological approach to experimentation whereby scientists can probe participants in more natural environments compared to the traditional lab based settings Examining how magicians consistently influence spectators for example can elucidate important aspects in the study of persuasion trust decision making and even processes spanning authorship and agency Magic thus offers a largely underused armamentarium for the behavioural scientist and clinician On the other hand psychological science can advance the art of magic The psychology of deception a relatively understudied field explores the intentional creation of false beliefs and how people often go wrong Understanding how to methodically exploit the tenuous twilight zone of human vulnerabilities perceptual logical emotional and temporal becomes all the more revealing when top down influences including expectation symbolic thinking and framing join the fray Over the years science has permitted magicians to concoct increasingly effective routines and to elicit heightened feelings of wonder from audiences Furthermore on occasion science leads to the creation of novel effects or the refinement of existing ones based on systematic methods For example by simulating a specific card routine using a series of computer stimuli researchers have decomposed the effect and reconstructed it into a more effective routine Other magic effects depend on meaningful psychological knowledge such as which type of information is difficult to retain or what changes capture attention Behavioural scientists measure and study these factors By combining analytical findings with performer intuitions psychological science begets effective magic Whereas science strives on parsimony and independent replication of results magic thrives on reproducing the same effect with multiple methods to obscure parsimony and minimise detection This Research Topic explores the seemingly orthogonal approaches of scientists and magicians by highlighting the crosstalk as well as rapprochement between psychological science and the art of deception

Law, Fiction and Activism in a Time of Climate Change Nicole Rogers, 2019-08-14 The book examines the narratives of climate change which have developed and which are currently evolving in three areas law fiction and activism Narratives of climate change generated by litigants judges writers of fiction and activists are having and will have a profound effect on the way we respond to the climate change crisis Acknowledging the prevalence of unreliable narrators this book explores the reliability and significance of different forms of climate narrative The author analyses overlapping themes and points of intersection considering the recurrent motif of the trickster the prominence of the child the significance and ongoing viability of the rights discourse and the increasingly prevalent emergency framing with its multiple implications for law's empire She asks how law fiction and activism measure up as textual and performative fora for telling the story of climate change and anticipating a climate changed future And in addition how can they help foster transformative narratives which empower us to confront the climate change crisis This highly topical cross disciplinary work will be of interest to anyone concerned about the growing climate emergency and makes a valuable contribution to climate law environmental law the environmental humanities and ecocriticism

Stopping the Spies Jane Duncan, 2018-06-01 Is South Africa on its way to becoming a surveillance state and will it need a whistleblower In 2013 former National Security Agency NSA contractor Edward Snowden leaked secret documents revealing that state agencies like the NSA had spied on the communications of millions of innocent citizens International outrage resulted but the Snowden documents revealed only the tip of the surveillance iceberg Apart from insisting on their rights to tap into communications more and more states are placing citizens under surveillance tracking their movements and transactions with public and private institutions The state is becoming like a one way mirror where it can see more of what its citizens do and say while citizens see less and less of what the state does owing to high levels of secrecy around surveillance In this book Jane Duncan assesses the relevance of Snowden s revelations for South Africa In doing so she questions the extent to which South Africa is becoming a surveillance society governed by a surveillance state Duncan challenges members of civil society to be concerned about and to act on the ever expanding surveillance capacities of the South African state Is surveillance used for the democratic purpose of making people safer or is it being used for the repressive purpose of social control especially of those considered to be politically threatening to ruling interests She explores the forms of collective action needed to ensure that unaccountable surveillance does not take place and examines what does and does not work when it comes to developing organised responses Ricerche di matematica ,2014
