Online Guide to Medical Research Michelle Kienholz, 1999 Discover how to use the Internet to locate primary sources for medical information This focused guide zeros in on the most valuable sites and techniques for staying up to date on medical issues grasping new technologies and enhancing medical practice Companion CD software Data zip 1MB Demos zip 2 1MB Resource zip 1 4MB EHealth2015 - Health Informatics Meets EHealth D. Hayn, G. Schreier, E. Ammenwerth, 2015-06-11 Traditionally medicine has involved therapies chosen according to clinical guidelines often arrived at through clinical trials which categorized patients into patient groups Such clinical guidelines would dictate that all patients within a specific group should be treated in exactly the same way More recently the paradigm has shifted towards personalized medicine and in future individual treatment plans will depend more on the specific characteristics of individual patients including genomic data This book presents the proceedings of the 9th scientific eHealth conference the eHealth Summit Austria held in Vienna Austria in June 2015 Among the main topics addressed at the conference were active and ambient assisted living AAL eHealth education electronic patient and health records ethical legal and economic aspects of eHealth ICT for integrated treatment research and personalized medicine patient portals and personal health records semantic interoperability of information systems and visualization of clinical or epidemiological data One of the first fields of application for personalized medicine has been oncology with current diagnostic tools including molecular risk factors biomarkers and individual genomes The next step in personalized medicine will be to extend these to a more general personalized health approach Such individual risk assessment and preventive strategies promise to have a huge impact on our healthcare systems and this book will be of interest to all those involved in healthcare research provision and practice MEDINFO 2021: One World, One Health — Global Partnership for Digital Innovation Paula Otero, Philip Scott, Susan Z. Martin, 2022-08-15 The World Health Organization defines health as a state of complete physical mental and social well being and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity and its constitution also asserts that health for all people is dependent on the fullest co operation of individuals and States The ongoing pandemic has highlighted the power of both healthy and unhealthy information so while healthcare and public health services have depended upon timely and accurate data and continually updated knowledge social media has shown how unhealthy misinformation can be spread and amplified reinforcing existing prejudices conspiracy theories and political biases This book presents the proceedings of MedInfo 2021 the 18th World Congress of Medical and Health Informatics held as a virtual event from 2 4 October 2021 with pre recorded presentations for all accepted submissions The theme of the conference was One World One Health Global Partnership for Digital Innovation and submissions were requested under 5 themes information and knowledge management quality safety and outcomes health data science human organizational and social aspects and global health informatics The Programme Committee received 352 submissions from 41 countries across all IMIA regions and 147 full papers 60 student papers and 79 posters were accepted for presentation after review and are included in these proceedings Providing an overview of current work in the field over a wide range of disciplines the book will be of interest to all those whose work involves some aspect of medical or health informatics

Emergency Items Catalogue, 3rd edition, Volume3 , Rural Disease Knowledge Matheus Alves Duarte da Silva,Christos Lynteris,2024-10-07 Rural Disease Knowledge examines the ways in which knowledge of rural spaces and environments on the one hand and infectious diseases on the other have become inter constituted since the late nineteenth century With contributions by leading anthropologists and historians of medicine it examines the epistemic co constitution of the rural and of infectious diseases Ranging from Brazil Argentina and Colombia to Java Tanzania West and South Africa and Britain the chapters cover diverse geographies timelines and diseases including plague brucellosis leishmaniasis yaws yellow fever nagana sleeping sickness and Chagas disease The book considers how human interactions with infectious diseases have impacted ways of knowing and acting on rural spaces and environments and in turn how human interactions with rural spaces and environments have impacted ways of knowing and acting against infectious diseases It reflects on how the rural has been configured as a space of either health or sickness over the centuries and around the globe the role of rural landscapes in the epistemic emergence of microbiology and tropical medicine and the interaction with global processes such as European imperialism the emergence of capitalism and postcolonial nation building projects The studies engage with current debates on decolonizing knowledge and highlight how local disease knowledge has troubled and unsettled hegemonic medical perspectives and created new ways of understanding the relationship between diseases and rural spaces and environments The volume will be of particular interest to scholars of medical anthropology global health and the history of medicine
