Gao, Catherine Ingram, Pookong Kee, 2016-07-22 Many researchers and China observers would agree that understanding how China pursues global communication is critical for assessing its growing soft power While soft power as a concept has in many ways become almost inextricably linked with the PRC's People's Republic of China international diplomacy of the twenty first century the specific role of global media within soft power diplomacy and the corresponding influence of Western mediated public diplomacy within China is a lacuna that has remained largely unexplored Moreover the different Chinese and Western perspectives on the influence of global media and public diplomacy on Sino Western relations and the changing role of global media on this crucial aspect of international politics have not yet been critically examined This volume presents a broad social science audience with recent innovative scholarship and research findings on global media and public diplomacy concerning Sino Western relations It focuses on the implicit nexus between global media and public diplomacy and their actual utilisation in and impact on the shifting relationships between China and the West Special attention is given to the changing nature of globalised media in both China and Western nations and how globalised media is influencing shaping and changing international politics The contributions delve deeply into both theory and practice and focus especially upon the analysis of several key aspects of the issue from both Chinese and Western perspectives This combination of approaches distinguishes the volume from most other published works on the topic and greatly enriches our knowledge base in this important contemporary field
