Amino Acids in Nutrition and Health Guoyao Wu, 2021-07-12 This book explains about amino acids AAs which are not only building blocks of protein but are also signaling molecules as well as regulators of gene expression and the protein phosphorylation cascade. Additionally AAs are key precursors for syntheses of hormones and low molecular weight nitrogenous substances with each having enormous biological importance. For example physiological concentrations of AA metabolites e.g. nitric oxide, polyamines, glutathione, taurine, thyroid hormones and serotonin are required for cell functions. Growing evidence shows that humans and animals have dietary requirements for all proteinogenic AAs. Mammals, birds and fish also have species and age dependent needs for some AA related substances. However elevated levels of other products e.g. ammonia, homocysteine, H<sub>2</sub>S and asymmetric dimethylarginine are pathogenic factors for neurological disorders, oxidative stress and cardiovascular disease. Thus optimal amounts of AAs and their ratios in diets and circulation are crucial for whole body homeostasis and health. Adequate provision of one or a mixture of functional AAs or metabolites may be beneficial for ameliorating health problems at various stages of the life cycle e.g. fetal growth restriction, neonatal morbidity and mortality, weaning associated intestinal dysfunction and wasting syndrome, obesity, diabetes, cardiovascular disease, the metabolic syndrome and infertility. Dietary supplementation of these nutrients can also optimize the efficiency of metabolic transformations to enhance muscle growth, milk production and athletic performance while preventing excess fat deposition and reducing adiposity. Therefore functional AAs hold great promise in improving the growth, health and well being of individuals.

Smart Food for Healthy, Sustainable and Resilient Food Systems, 2023-06-06 We are no longer able to provide the world population with a healthy diet and at the same time sustainably balance our planetary resources to ensure resilient and viable livelihoods for smallholder farmers. For the past fifty years, diets have become less nutritionally balanced, contribute significantly to climate change and have accelerated the process of biodiversity erosion. We have reduced the number of species that are cultivated for food and for each species we are growing fewer varieties. While agriculture has moved towards uniformity, biodiversity is the basis of healthy and nutritious diets and biodiversity is paramount for adapting crops to climate change. Hence it is important to build resilient and sustainable food systems by re-introducing diversity into our agricultural systems and introducing Smart Food from smart crops into our diets.

Smart Food is food that fulfills the criteria for being good for you nutritious and healthy good for the planet environmentally sustainable and beneficial to the farmers who grow these crops resilient and viable The aim of this Research Topic is to provide researchers research managers funding agencies and government agencies with scientifically backed information to foster awareness increased use and support for research into Smart Food Parliamentary Debates India.
