

The background of the cover features a dark, high-contrast image of a violin, shown from a side profile. The body of the violin is a deep, dark wood, while the f-hole and the bridge are highlighted in a lighter, almost white color. Overlaid on the violin and the dark background are several thin, white geometric lines. These lines form various shapes, including circles, triangles, and rectangles, some of which intersect to create a grid-like pattern. The lines are most prominent on the left side of the cover, where they form a series of concentric circles and intersecting lines that suggest a sense of depth and perspective. The overall effect is a blend of organic form (the violin) and abstract geometry.
