countries are still in a state of flux Katz Kochan and Colvin analyze how labor relations functions in emerging countries in a manner that is useful to practitioners policymakers and academics They take account of the fact that labor relations are much more politicized in emerging countries than in advanced industrialized countries They also address the traditional role played by state dominated unions in emerging countries and the recent increased importance of independent unions that have emerged as alternatives These independent unions tend to promote firm or workplace level collective bargaining in contrast to the more traditional top down systems Katz Kochan and Colvin explain how multinational corporations nongovernmental organizations and other groups that act across national borders increasingly influence work and employment outcomes
