Literature Into Film Theory And Practical Approaches:

Literature into Film Linda Costanzo Cahir, 2014-12-24 For most people film adaptation of literature can be summed up in one sentence The movie wasn't as good as the book This volume undertakes to show the reader that not only is this evaluation not always true but sometimes it is intrinsically unfair Movies based on literary works while often billed as adaptations are more correctly termed translations A director and his actors translate the story from the written page into a visual presentation Depending on the form of the original text and the chosen method of translation certain inherent difficulties and pitfalls are associated with this change of medium So often our reception of a book based movie has more to do with our expectations and reading of the literature than with the job that the movie production did or did not do Avoiding these biases and fairly evaluating any particular literary based film takes an awareness of certain factors Written with a formalistic rather than historical approach this work presents a comprehensive guide to literature based films establishing a contextual and theoretical basis to help the reader understand the relationships between such movies and the original texts as well as the reader's own individual responses to these productions To this end it focuses on recognizing and appreciating the inherent difficulties encountered when basing a film on a literary work be it a novel novella play or short story Individual chapters deal with the specific issues and difficulties raised by each of these genres providing an overview backed up by case studies of specific film translations Films and literary works receiving this treatment include The Unbearable Lightness of Being The Manchurian Candidate 1962 Lady Windemere's Fan by Oscar Wilde and Shakespeare's Henry V Interspersed throughout the text are suggestions for activities the film student or buff can use to enhance his or her appreciation and understanding of the films Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here

Rewatching on the Point of the Cinematic Index Allen H. Redmon,2022-08-24 Rewatching on the Point of the Cinematic Index offers a reassessment of the cinematic index as it sits at the intersection of film studies trauma studies and adaptation studies Author Allen H Redmon argues that far too often scholars imagine the cinematic index to be nothing more than an acknowledgment that the lens based camera captures and brings to the screen a reality that existed before the camera When cinema's indexicality is so narrowly defined the entire nature of film is called into question the moment film no longer relies on a lens based camera The presence of digital technologies seemingly strips cinema of its indexical standing This volume pushes for a broader understanding of the cinematic index by returning to the early discussions of the index in film studies and the more recent discussions of the index in other digital arts Bolstered by the insights these discussions can offer the volume looks to replace what might be best deemed a diminished concept of the cinematic index with a series of more complex cinematic indices the impoverished index the indefinite index the intertextual index and the imaginative index The central argument of this book is that these more complex indices encourage spectators to enter a process of ongoing adaptation of the reality they see on the screen and that it is on the point of these indices that the most significant instances of rewatching movies occur Examining such films as John Lee Hancock's Saving Mr Banks 2013 Richard Linklater's oeuvre Paul Greengrass's United 93 2006 Oliver Stone's World Trade Center 2006 Stephen Daldry's Extremely Loud and Incredibly Close 2011 and Christopher Nolan's Dunkirk 2017 Inception 2010 and Memento 2000 Redmon demonstrates that the cinematic index invites spectators to enter a process of ongoing adaptation

The Literature/Film Reader James M. Welsh, Peter Lev, 2007-08-14 From examinations of Francis Ford Coppola's Apocalypse Now to Alfred Hitchcock's Vertigo The Literature Film Reader Issues of Adaptation covers a wide range of films adapted from other sources The first section presents essays on the hows and whys of adaptation studies and subsequent sections highlight films adapted from a variety of sources including classic and popular literature drama biography and memoir The last section offers a new departure for adaptation studies suggesting that films about history often a separate category of film study can be seen as adaptations of records of the past The anthology concludes with speculations about the future of adaptation studies Several essays provide detailed analyses of films in some cases discussing more than one adaptation of a literary or dramatic source such as The Manchurian Candidate The Quiet American and Romeo and Juliet Other works examined include Moby Dick The House of Mirth Dracula and Starship Troopers demonstrating the breadth of material considered for this anthology Although many of the essays appeared in Literature Film Quarterly more than half are original contributions Chosen for their readability these essays avoid theoretical jargon as much as possible For this reason alone this collection should be of interest to not only cinema scholars but to anyone interested in films and their source material Ultimately The Literature Film Reader Issues of Adaptation provides an excellent overview of this critical aspect of film studies
