Conservation of Natural and Cultural Heritage in Kenya Anne-Marie Deisser, Mugwima Njuguna, 2016-10-07 In Kenya cultural and natural heritage has a particular value Its pre historic heritage not only tells the story of man's origin and evolution but has also contributed to the understanding of the earth's history fossils and artefacts spanning over 27 million years have been discovered and conserved by the National Museums of Kenya NMK Alongside this the steady rise in the market value of African art has also affected Kenya Demand for African tribal art has surpassed that for antiquities of Roman Byzantine and Egyptian origin and in African countries currently experiencing conflicts this activity invariably attracts looters traffickers and criminal networks This book brings together essays by heritage experts from different backgrounds including conservation heritage management museum studies archaeology environment and social sciences architecture and landscape geography philosophy and economics to explore three key themes the underlying ethics practices and legal issues of heritage conservation the exploration of architectural and urban heritage of Nairobi and the natural heritage landscapes and sacred sites in relation to local Kenyan communities and tourism It thus provides an overview of conservation practices in Kenya from 2000 to 2015 and highlights the role of natural and cultural heritage as a key factor of social economic development and as a potential instrument for conflict resolution     The Kenya Education Directory ,2003     The Higher Education Institutions Handbook ,2012

Public & Private Universities in Kenya Kilemi Mwiria,Partnership for Higher Education in Africa,2007 Reviews the history of higher education in Kenya and details the emergence of private universities most of them with a Christian religious orientation as major players in the provision of tertiary level education     The Ballot ,2015-06     Micro and Small Enterprises in Kenya Andrew Mullei,Crispin Bokea,1999     At the Crossroads Florence Ebam Etta,Laurent Elder,2005

In 1996 only five African countries had internet connectivity In 2001 all the countries on the continent had connectivity and in the early part of the twenty first century Africa has experienced the fastest rate in growth of internet usage in the world Yet this is only part of the story To date Africa remains the least connected continent in the world and registers some of the greatest disparities and inequalities in access to ICTs The digital divide is still very much a reality The contributors to this volume provide invaluable information on the development and use of ICTs in Kenya and East Africa Specifically they raise questions about ICT policy and implementation the respective roles of the public and private sectors and the application of ICTs in government education and various industries Based on empirical research the authors demonstrate the considerable progress that has been made in the region to promote ICT initiatives and projects as part of the wider development agenda They also explore the many challenges the next stage of ICT development is encountering defined as infrastructural technical regulatory distributional social cultural and economic Finally the contributors consider the development of ICTs in wider continental and global contexts They examine the complex intersections interactions and sometime contradictions between ICTs in Africa the information society knowledge economies education literacy and enlightenment socio economic development culture language and globalisation This is a co publication with the International Development Research Centre IDRC in Canada     Directory of Scientists and Institutions Working in Social Sciences and Health in Africa Anne Muthoni Pertet,1996     *Annual Report Kenya.
