

HMV 148, 159 MARCONIPHONE 282, 284, 284A, 294 COLUMBIA 1008

All the above models incorporate the basic chassis described in this review. The differences concern only cabinet design, loudspeaker form and so on. The circuit is a three-tube, two-wireless TRF battery arrangement with re-actor and sensitivity control. Extra loud-speaker of the high-impedance type may be connected across the primary of the output transformer. Marked by the Gramophone, Marconiphone, and Columbia Graphophone Companies, Hayes, Mohe.

SIGNALS from the aerial are coupled by L1 to the grid tuning coils L2 (MW), L3 (LW). These are tuned by VC1 section of the gauged condenser and the signals are fed direct to the grid of the screened grid valve V1.

The filament circuit of this valve incorporates a variable resistance VR1 for adjusting its sensitivity and is controllable by a Load in the front of the instrument.

Grid bias is applied to V1, the grid circuit being decoupled C1.

An HF transformer L4, L8 (MW), L5, L9 (LW), couples the signal from V1 to the grid circuit of the triode detector V2. L8 and L9 are tuned by VC2 section of the gauged condenser, while detection is effected by the grid condenser and leak C2, R2.

Pick-up sockets are provided for a high resistance pick-up, and V2 is automatically biased as an LF amplifier when the pick-up leads are inserted in their sockets. A separate volume control will be required for the pick-up.

The anode circuit of V2 comprises an HP choke L10 and bypass condensers C3, C4. Reaction to the grid coils is effected by the variable condenser VC3 which operates as a volume control, and the reaction coils L4 (MW), L7 (LW).

LF signals are reactance-capacity coupled by R1 and C5 to the inter-valve transformer L12, L13, via a variable suppressor reflector circuit L11, C6.

V1 6 523

A separate grid bias lead is provided for the output valve (GB-2) and the highest possible bias should be provided consistent with freedom from distortion in order to minimise HT battery consumption. As the voltage of the battery falls, so the grid bias voltage should be decreased.

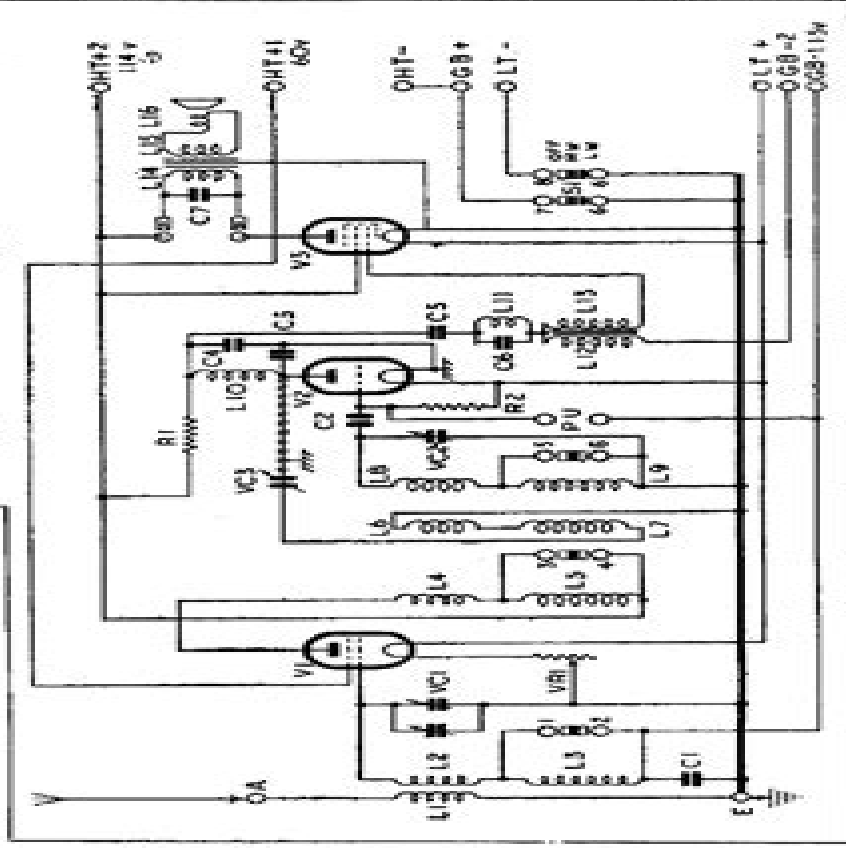

From L13 the LF signals are fed to the grid of the output pentode V3. The usual output transformer couples the anode of V3 to the moving coil PM loud-speaker and terminals are provided for a high resist.

*HT battery consumption will be increased 100 per cent. if HT leads are removed to accommodation.

This simple battery receiver was a popular model marketed by the KMI company in different countries. The illustration above shows the Marconiphone version.

A permanent degree of tone correction is effected by C7.

TUNING—Only one tuning condenser is provided across VC1. This should be adjusted on a weak signal input of about 200m for maximum output.
