Military Skills Development 2016:

South Africa's Post-Apartheid Military Lindy Heineken, 2020-01-01 This timely book examines how the South African National Defence Force has adapted to the country's new security political and social environment since 1994. In South Africa's changed political state, how has civilian control of the military been implemented and what does this mean for defence in a democracy? This book presents an overview of the security environment, how the mission focus of the military has changed and the implications for force procurement, force preparation, force employment and force sustainability. The author addresses other issues such as the effect of integrating former revolutionary soldiers into a professional armed force, the effect of affirmative action on meritocracy, recruitment and retention, military veterans looking at the difficulties they face in reintegrating back into society and finding gainful employment, gender equality and mainstreaming, the rise of military unions and why a confrontational instead of a more corporatist approach to labour relations has emerged, HIV/AIDS and the consequences this holds for the military in terms of its operational effectiveness. In closing, the author highlights key events that have caused the SANDF to become lost in transition and transformation, spelling out some lessons learned. The conclusions she draws are pertinent for the future of defence security and civil-military relations of countries around the world.

Leaders for Tomorrow: Challenges for Military Leadership in the Age of Asymmetric Warfare

Marina Nuciari, Eraldo Olivetta, 2021-05-09 Since the end of bipolarism, the concept of asymmetric warfare and of asymmetric conflict in general has been increasingly applied with regard to armed forces activities and tasks. This book presents the findings of comparative empirical research conducted in selected military units by a group of distinguished experts on military organization who hail from the eight participating countries: Bulgaria, Cameroon, Denmark, Finland, Italy, Lithuania, the Philippines, and Spain. It discusses remarks made by military leaders with extensive experience in the field regarding current doctrines on military leadership and their applicability in the field, as well as proposals and suggestions for new directions. It is a complex relation always based on respect and politeness but often with mismatched interests. Army Colonel It makes you realize that there is a cultural gap. You must firstly understand who you are going to relate to and the culture of these people and then try to establish a certain kind of relationship. Often the platoon commander states his objective and must try to establish a relationship contact with the village chief Army Lieutenant Platoon Commander In Afghanistan We had meals with the locals sometimes the food didn't taste good but you had to eat it if you wanted to be welcomed back again Army Captain Company Commander These are just some of the many voices stemming from the ground in diverse international asymmetric conflict theatres in Iraq in Kosovo in Afghanistan comments by military officers commanders at different hierarchical levels asked to reflect on their experiences as military leaders in crisis response operations Military professionals and military leaders in particular perceive themselves as facing ambiguous situations that require an update in their professional training and new skills to confront unexpected and unpredictable factors Drawing on lived experiences the book offers insights into what a new kind of leadership means when leaders have to cope with diverse and unclear missions It also addresses leadership styles and behaviours as well as individual adaptive behaviours on the part of military leaders with special reference to middle and middle high level ranks such as captains majors and colonels Given its scope the book will appeal not only to military professionals and military affairs scholars and experts but also to readers interested in gaining a better understanding of the challenges that international expeditionary units are facing in crisis areas around the globe Annual Report South Africa.
