Product Safety & Liability Reporter, 2006      Privatization in Malaysia Jeff Tan, 2007-10-02 In recent years privatisation has fallen out of favour in many countries because the underlying political factors have not been well understood This book examines Malaysia's privatisation programme focusing on how political constraints resulted in the failure of four major privatisations the national sewerage company IWK Kuala Lumpur Light Rail Transit LRT national airline MAS and national car company Proton It considers why developing countries such as Malaysia might want to embark on privatisation the factors that lead to policy failure and what is needed to make it work It shows clearly that political motives driving privatisation often dominate purely economic considerations and thus it is necessary to analyse privatisation within the specific country context It argues that failure in the Malaysian case was due to political considerations that compromised institutional design and regulatory enforcement leading to problems associated with corruption It concludes that privatisation does not necessarily improve incentives for efficiency or enhance the finance available for capital investment and that successful privatisation depends on the state's institutional and political capacity to design and manage an appropriate set of subsidies Overall this book is a comprehensive examination of privatisation in Malaysia providing important insights for understanding the political economy of this process in other developing countries      Business Review Weekly, 1990      Persuasive Games Ian Bogost, 2010-08-13 An exploration of the way videogames mount arguments and make expressive statements about the world that analyzes their unique persuasive power in terms of their computational properties Videogames are an expressive medium and a persuasive medium they represent how real and imagined systems work and they invite players to interact with those systems and form judgments about them In this innovative analysis Ian Bogost examines the way videogames mount arguments and influence players Drawing on the 2 500 year history of rhetoric the study of persuasive expression Bogost analyzes rhetoric's unique function in software in general and videogames in particular The field of media studies already analyzes visual rhetoric the art of using imagery and visual representation persuasively Bogost argues that videogames thanks to their basic representational mode of procedurality rule based representations and interactions open a new domain for persuasion they realize a new form of rhetoric Bogost calls this new form procedural rhetoric a type of rhetoric tied to the core affordances of computers running processes and executing rule based symbolic manipulation He argues further that videogames have a unique persuasive power that goes beyond other forms of computational persuasion Not only can videogames support existing social and cultural positions but they can also disrupt and change these positions themselves leading to potentially significant long term social change Bogost looks at three areas in which videogame persuasion has already taken form and shows considerable potential politics advertising and learning      The Weekly Review, 1998      The Autocar, 1986      Popular Mechanics, 2003-08 Popular Mechanics inspires instructs and influences readers to help them master the modern world Whether it's practical DIY home improvement tips
