iCloud

iCloud stores a user's contacts, calendars, photos, documents, and more, and keeps the information up to date across all of their devices, automatically. iCloud can also be used by third-party apps to store and sync documents, as well as key values for app data as defined by the developer. Users set up iCloud by signing in with an Apple ID and choosing which services they would like to use. iCloud features, including My Photo Stream, iCloud Drive, and iCloud Backup, can be disabled by IT administrators via MDM configuration profiles. The service is agnostic about what is being stored and handles all file content the same way, as a collection of bytes.

Each file is broken into chunks and encrypted by iCloud using AES-128 and a key derived from each chunk's contents that utilizes SHA-256. The keys and the file's metadata are stored by Apple in the user's iCloud account. The encrypted chunks of the file are stored, without any user-identifying information in the keys, using both Apple and third-party storage services—such as Amazon Web Services or Google Cloud Platform—but these partners don't have the keys to decrypt your data stored on their servers.

iCloud Drive

iCloud Drive adds account-based keys to protect documents stored in iCloud. As with existing iCloud services, it chunks and encrypts file contents and stores the encrypted chunks using third-party services. In addition, the file content keys are wrapped by record keys stored with the iCloud Drive metadata. These record keys are in turn protected by the user's iCloud Drive Service Key, which is then stored with the user's iCloud account. Users get access to their iCloud documents' metadata by having authenticated with iCloud, but must also possess the iCloud Drive Service Key to expose protected parts of iCloud Drive storage.

CloudKit

CloudKit allows app developers to store key-value data, structured data, and assets in iCloud. Access to CloudKit is controlled using app entitlements. CloudKit supports both public and private databases. Public databases are used by all copies of the app, typically for general assets, and aren't encrypted. Private databases store the user's data.

As with iCloud Drive, CloudKit uses account-based keys to protect the information stored in the user's private databases and, similar to other iCloud services, files are chunked, encrypted, and stored using third-party services. CloudKit utilizes a hierarchy of keys, similar to Data Protection. The per-file keys are wrapped by CloudKit Record keys. The Record keys, in turn, are protected by a zone-wide key, which is protected by the user's CloudKit Service Key. The CloudKit Service Key is stored in the user's iCloud account and is available only after the user has authenticated with iCloud.
