

8. _____ In the prison baseball scene when Brother Baines talks about African history to Malcolm, why do the filmmakers show a lengthy pan of Black prisoners listening?
- to emphasize that Malcolm's awakening is not just personal but part of a collective Black experience
 - to foreshadow that they will later rebel against the prison system with a riot or uprising
 - to stretch out the scene for pacing reasons rather than having any symbolic meaning
 - to suggest the racial diversity of the prison population
9. _____ How is Malcolm indirectly characterized by the action of straightening his hair?
- It conveys his desire to rebel against authority and establish himself as a leader.
 - It implies his rejection of white beauty norms and embrace of Black self-acceptance and pride.
 - It reflects his early desire to assimilate and gain social status by altering his natural appearance.
 - It suggests an awareness about his true cultural identity and his African heritage.
10. _____ What is ironic and hypocritical that Malcolm learns about Elijah Muhammad?
- He believed that Black women were superior to Black men, yet he only allowed men to be leaders in the Nation of Islam.
 - He insisted that Black women be well-educated, yet he believed they should never speak in public.
 - He preached strict moral and behavioral guidelines for Black men and women, yet his own actions contradicted these teachings.
 - He taught that men and women were completely equal, yet he discouraged women from working outside the home.
11. _____ How is Malcolm indirectly characterized when he decides not to straighten his hair anymore?
- It implies his desire to assimilate and belief to a system that devalues Blackness.
 - It implies his pursuit of external validation to define himself.
 - It implies his rejection of white beauty norms and embrace of Black self-acceptance and pride.
 - It implies his wish to blend into or conform to society more.
12. _____ What costume change do the film makers make for Malcolm to underscore his dynamic characterization and religious transformation?
- He wears flashy zoot suits, colorful ties, and wide-brimmed hats.
 - He wears military fatigues to show his fight against racial oppression.
 - He wears simple black glasses.
 - He wears traditional African robes to symbolize his embrace of his African heritage.
13. _____ How do Elijah Muhammad and the Nation of Islam followers dress? Why? How do their costumes indirectly characterize them?
- Their all-white clothing symbolizes purity and their spiritual rebirth.
 - Their casual clothing shows their connection to everyday people like you and me.
 - Their conservative, formal attire reflects their discipline, unity, and moral purity.
 - Their traditional African garments emphasize their cultural roots.
14. _____ How does Elijah Muhammad's office and its set design indirectly characterize him?
- The set design features luxurious furnishings and elegant decor, symbolizing his elevated status.
 - The set design features small and plain items, reflecting his humility and self-imposed poverty.
 - The set design features traditional African art to connect him to his African heritage.
 - The set design features prayer rugs and religious artifacts, emphasizing his deep spiritual devotion.
15. _____ How did Malcolm X choose his name? What can his name symbolize to him?
- It symbolizes his lost African surname that was taken from his ancestors by white slave masters.
 - It symbolizes his desire to be cool and mysterious.
 - It symbolizes the embrace of his assimilation to others who have surnames.
 - It symbolizes the power for public speaking that he knew would add dramatic effect.
