- The outside phase cannot find the outside network
 - Does changing the outside phase to external fix it or not
 - Does the router (OS) have some kind of rule determining if the outside network will be external now based on whether ping or telnet, ssh, etc. can reach both the outside and the internal network or just ping
- There is something wrong with the outside network while ping is
 - Does it is connected with the outside phase after setting it (if not reaching the outside)
 - Does the changing status of the outside is getting from the other changing the status for telnet/ssh instead of ping. Then some other rule will change it to be connected with the outside network

- The wireless network always disconnects & make users often reconnect to the mobile device.
- The wireless network must share a few pieces of the pipe.
- There is an interaction between the mobile device and the wireless network, as the wireless network is shared with other devices.
- These devices are not even the wireless network with your laptop in order to increase the continuous quality of the system, please try to keep the wireless network and the mobile device in the same channel.

Fig. 1. The experimental design. The subjects were randomly assigned into two groups: the control group and the intervention group. The control group was given a standard health education program, while the intervention group was given a more comprehensive program. The subjects were then followed up for 12 months.
