Enhancing Innovation in the Ugandan Agri-Food Sector: Robusta Coffee Planting Material & Tropical Fruit Processing World Intellectual Property Organization, Travis J. Lybbert, Gracious Diiro, Dick Kawooya, Sacha Wunsch-Vincent, 2017 Uganda's innovation performance in recent years has consistently outpaced other low income and Sub Saharan African countries. Though encouraging this nascent progress will only benefit the broader Ugandan population if policy makers address specific constraints in the innovation systems of the critical agri food sector which is hampered by low productivity and profitability. In this report we explore these constraints using an agricultural value chains framework with particular focus on the Robusta Coffee Planting Material Pipeline and tropical fruit processing. Open Access Implications for Sustainable Social, Political, and Economic Development Jain, Priti, Mnjama, Nathan, Oladokun, O., 2020-09-18 Open access publishing can be used as a strategic tool to avail access to information and achieve universal literacy. Open access has gained importance over the past 15 years by making knowledge available to all without any barrier of affordability or restrictions on using this knowledge to inform and develop. Open access contributes to scientific research excellence, disseminates research results to a wider community and promotes multi disciplinary and collaborative research. Issues of sustainable development and open access are major concerns in librarianship and information management particularly as the international library and information management community is focusing on how to contribute to the Sustainable Development Goals. Open Access Implications for Sustainable Social Political and Economic Development is a pivotal reference source that provides an understanding of the concept of open access within the context of social political and economic development and deliberates the critical issues and challenges that face the implementation of open access and its impact on the global economy and sustainable development. While highlighting a broad range of topics including digital scholarship, open data and ethics, this book is ideally designed for librarians, information science professionals, government officials, policymakers, academicians, researchers and students.

This timely volume brings together African and European scholars in a first ever collection of articles that offer comprehensive discussions of the historical and present day sociolinguistics of English in Uganda and fine grained analyses of the structural characteristics of and attitudes to this hitherto largely unknown variety. Using rich archive corpus and interview data as well as ethnographic and observational methods, the various contributions paint a comprehensive picture of Ugandan English as distinct from other East African Englishes and as characterized by nativisation despite a still strong exonormative orientation reflecting the modern nation's status as a post protectorate under the influence of globalisation. Apart from advancing our understanding of Ugandan English itself, the individual chapters contribute to theoretical debates on language contact and variation as regards the
