Making History Interesting Get Skilled In Teaching History:

Making History Interesting Jeff Davis, 2015-01-06 Your attitude about history can also make a difference for your child. Showing your interest in history, your belief that knowing history makes a difference for your life, encourages your child to show interest. Read more The Palgrave Handbook of History and Social Studies Education Christopher W. Berg, Theodore M. Christou, 2020-04-03 This Handbook presents an international collection of essays examining history education past and present. Framing recent curriculum reforms in Canada and in the United States in light of a century-long debate between the relationship between theory and practice, this collection contextualizes the debate by exploring the evolution of history and social studies education within their state or national contexts. With contributions ranging from Canada, Finland, New Zealand, Sweden, the Netherlands, the Republic of South Africa, the United Kingdom, and the United States, chapters illuminate the ways in which curriculum theorists and academic researchers are working with curriculum developers and educators to translate and refine notions of historical thinking or inquiry as well as pedagogical practice.

Learning to Teach History in the Secondary School Terry Haydn, Alison Stephen, James Arthur, Martin Hunt, 2014-10-10 An excellent companion to Learning to Teach in Secondary School, full of good ideas and better advice. Mentors will certainly want to use it, and so I'm sure will the rest of the history department. Make sure they buy one and keep your copy under lock and key. Michael Duffy, Times Educational Supplement. A very well-written and readable book. Overall, this is an excellent book and one which students and teachers outwith England would find a valuable addition to their library. Scottish Association of Teachers of History Resources Review. This book is without question the standard text for the history PGCE market. Dr Ian Davies, University of York. On the first edition: Learning to Teach History in the Secondary School provides an accessible introduction to teaching and learning history at secondary level. Underpinned by a theoretical perspective and backed up by the latest research, it encourages student teachers to develop a personal approach to teaching history. This fourth edition has been thoroughly updated for the new curriculum with a brand new chapter on subject knowledge and a new section on action research to better support those reflecting on and developing their own practice. It provides an array of references and materials that give a sound theoretical foundation for the teaching of history, including weblinks to further resources, while a range of tasks will enable students to put their learning into practice in the classroom. Practical advice is combined with reference and access to a wide range of recent and relevant research in the field of history education to support Masters Level research and aid reflective practice. Key issues covered include: The benefits of learning history; Planning; The use of language and strategies for teaching; Inclusion; Technology in history teaching; Assessment; Continuing professional development. Offering comprehensive and accessible support to becoming a history teacher, this book remains an invaluable resource for all training and newly qualified history teachers. Making History Mine Sarah Cooper, 2009 Built around eight themes, examining the role of the individual, understanding, point of view, assessing the impact of rhetoric finding patterns in the past writing analytically connecting current events to historical precedents igniting passion through research and exploring ethics and morals Making History Mine offers young adolescents a window to the wider world This comprehensive volume gives teachers and students a solid framework for exploring and understanding history including how to analyze primary source documents extrapolate themes and detect bias in a historian s argument Back cover
