Pitelka, 2007-01-10 Over 100 authors present 25 contributions on the impacts of global change on terrestrial ecosystems including key processes of the earth system such as the CO₂ fertilization effect shifts in disturbances and biome distribution the saturation of the terrestrial carbon sink and changes in functional biodiversity ecosystem services such the production of wheat pest control and carbon storage in croplands and sensitive regions in the world threaten by rapid changes in climate and land use such as high latitudes ecosystems tropical forest in Southeast Asia and ecosystems dominated by Monsoon climate The book also explores new research developments on spatial thresholds and nonlinearities the key role of urban development in global biogeochemical processes and the integration of natural and social sciences to address complex problems of the human environment system

Water in a Changing World World Water Assessment Programme (United Nations), 2009 The United Nations World Water Development Report published every three years is a comprehensive review providing an authoritative picture of the state of the world s freshwater resources It offers best practices as well as in depth

theoretical analyses to help stimulate ideas and actions for better stewardship in the water sector It is the only report of its kind resulting from the collaboration and contributions of the 26 UN agencies commissions program funds secretariats and conventions that have a significant role in addressing global water concerns The news media are full of talk of crises in climate change energy and food and troubled financial markets These crises are linked to each other and to water resources management Unresolved they may lead to increasing political insecurity and conflict Water is required to meet our fundamental needs and rising living standards and to sustain our planets fragile ecosystems Pressures on the resource come from a growing and mobile population social and cultural change economic development and technological change Adding complexity and risk is climate change with impacts on the resource as well as on the sources of pressure on water The challenges though substantial are not insurmountable The Report shows how some countries have responded Progress in providing drinking water is heartening with the Millennium Development Goal target on track in most regions But other areas remain unaddressed and after decades of inaction the problems in water systems are enormous and will worsen if left unattended Leaders in the water sector can inform decisions outside their domain and manage water resources to achieve agreed socioeconomic objectives and environmental integrity Leaders in government the private sector and civil society determine these objectives and allocate human and financial resources to meet them Recognizing this responsibility they must act now Two volume set 336 96 pages case studies Includes CD ROM Published jointly with UNESCO Publishing

Plant Ecology in a Changing World James R. Ehleringer, Russell K. Monson, 2025-06-30 Today global changes and human activities affect plants within each of the world s ecosystems Plant Ecology in a Changing World provides a foundation for understanding how the changes underway impact structure and function in the world s major biomes while also describing how evolution has resulted in the biochemical physiological structural and life history features that shaped plants and their capacities to persist across widely contrasting environments This textbook is designed for undergraduate students and graduate students as well to serve as a resource for climate change and ecosystem scientists seeking a foundation on the principles of plant ecology and the basis of plant adaptations While many textbooks focus primarily on natural ecosystems Plant Ecology in a Changing World also recognizes the ecological importance of invasive managed and urban ecosystems and of the ways in which ecosystems are already being impacted by both human activities and a warming planet Key features Replete with 450 figures that help to elucidate concepts and charts to clearly present key data Boxes within chapters allow those who wish to delve into more advanced aspects of topics and of those key methodological approaches used to quantify processes Highlights of key plant ecologists and of their contributions Each chapter concludes with a bulleted summary enabling students to recap the key points of the chapter Each chapter comes with both a list of references as well as with suggested readings allowing the student to expand their knowledge on a particular topic Associated with the book is an array of supplementary materials These are available and constantly updated at <http://plantecology.org> Migration Guy

Arnold, 2011-11-07 Constant migration is a worldwide phenomenon that creates sharp divisions between those who accept the need for migrants and welcome the contributions they make and those who oppose them on xenophobic grounds Guy Arnold provides a comprehensive survey of the consequences of migration Arnold studies both the massive internal migrations in China and India that drive economic development and the influx of cheap labour into the advanced economies of the USA and EU He shows that migrants are essential to advanced countries filling skills gaps and bolstering ageing and static populations He argues that the constant flow of people in all directions should be welcomed as a positive assault upon outdated narrow nationalism Packed with statistics that support the argument that migration is a force for positive change Arnold's analysis will be an excellent resource for journalists policy makers and students of sociology human geography and anthropology
