Testing the Untestable in Language Education Amos Paran, Lies Sercu, 2010 The testing and assessment of language competence continues to be a much debated issue in foreign language teaching and research This book is the first one to address the testing of four important dimensions of foreign language education which have been left largely unconsidered learner autonomy intercultural competence literature and literary competence and the integration of content and language learning Each area is considered through a theoretical framework followed by two empirical studies raising questions of importance to all language teachers How can one test literary competence Can intercultural competence be measured What about the integrated assessment of content and language in CLIL and teaching Is progress in autonomous learning skill gaugeable The book constitutes essential reading for anyone interested in the testing and assessment of seemingly largely untestable aspects of foreign language competence The title of this book is well chosen Despite the apparent oxymoron this collection of papers succeeds in addressing important issues of educational policy and theory with the precision born of empirical work combined with discussion of principles This book will open new options for testers for teachers and for those who make policy decisions Michael Byram School of Education University of Durham UK
